KILLED BY LIGHTNING

STEVE KLOMOSKY THE VICTIM.
Several Minor Catastrophes from the Same Cause. J. D. Witter Losses a Horse.

Steve Klonosky, who lived in the town of Sigel about half a mile north of James Granger's place, was killed by lightning on Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

He was engaged in making some repairs to his granary at the time of the accident and was just nailing on a board when the electric fluid struck the structure, killing Mr. Klonosky instantly. Although the shock was a very severe one none of the buildings were set on fire and no other great damage was done.

Mr. Klonosky was about forty years old and leaves a family of seven children, his wife having died some time ago. The oldest son, a boy of seventeen years, was disabled last summer by the loss of a foot in the sawmill at Arpin. The loss of the father will leave the family rather in a handicapped position, the crippled son being unable to do a man's work. The funeral was held yesterday.

Horse Killed by Lightning.

J. D. Witter had a driving horse killed by lightning on Wednesday night. The animal was in the stable at the time and although there was a horse on either side, they were apparently uninjured. The lightning seems to have entered over the electric light wire, as there was hay in the barn at the time and this was not set on fire.

Fred Kruger's House Struck.

The home of Fred Kruger on the west side was struck by lightning at about 1:30 o'clock Thursday morning, damaging the dwelling somewhat, knocking off more or less plaster in different places.

Charley Kruger was sleeping near a partition down which the electricity seemed to run and when he was awakened by the crash his face was covered by the broken plaster and dust from partition. He was not injured by the shock, however, but it was entirely too close for comfort.

Storm a Severe One.

The severity of the storm was felt all about this section of the state. Damage by lightning, wind and excessive rain is reported from many sections outside of this immediate locality. The appearance of the sky on Wednesday afternoon was such as to lead people to fear that there would be a severe windstorm here, but it passed by without any damage from this source. The lightning, however, was the most severe that has been known for some time. The amount of rainfall has been simply phenomenal, and was so incessant as to almost entirely stop all kinds of outdoor work.

This great fall of water has been mostly felt by the farmers, who have been prevented from threshing, while many report that the excess of moisture is rapidly injuring the potato crop and will undoubtedly cause much rot.

Club Year Opens.

The Woman's club opened the new club year with a sumptuous banquet at the residence of Mrs. T. A. Lipke. At seven o'clock the guests sat down to a five course dinner, covers being laid for nineteen. Menu as follows:

Turkey Creaneted Potatoes
Stuffed Eggs Plant Salted Nuts
Bread Salad Waters
Sherbet Assorted Cake

The table was artistically decorated with sunflowers and pansies, with an elaborate center of American beauty roses. The Mandolin club furnished sweet music throughout the evening.

Those present were Mesdames Daly, Gaynor, Hambrecht, Haroun, Harvie, Lipke, Scott, Thomas, Webb and Witter and the Misses Farish, Briere, St. Amour, Nash, Kromer, Emmons, and Whitrock.

Souvenirs for the occasion were furnished in the form of the menu card which was in the shape of a paony, handpainted and inscribed with violet ink, the club color.

High School Notes.

The musical exercises in the morning have begun to take on the form of systematical work now, and in a short time Mr. Fuller expects to form a glee-club and a chorus.

Next week the pupils will have a chance to show how much they have learned during the past six weeks.

Miss Vinnie White of Vesper and Irving Brazeau of this city visited school during the past week.

This week has been a very poor week for studying on account of the dark days.

Notice.

The barbers of the city of Grand Rapids announced that, on and after October 20th, 25 cents will be charged for cutting children's hair, instead of 15 cents as heretofore.

REPUBLICANS NOMINATED.

The Convention at Marshfield on Tuesday Afternoon.

At the republican county convention which convened at Marshfield on Tuesday afternoon all of the voting precincts of Wood county were represented with a very few exceptions. The convention was a harmonious one throughout and the men named are pretty generally satisfactory to the republicans throughout the county.

The convention was presided over by E. E. Winch of Marshfield with C. S. Vedder of Marshfield as secretary.

A committee on resolutions consisting of Wm. Noll, C. E. Anderton and Isaac P. Witter was appointed.

The convention then proceeded to the nomination of a set of county officers which resulted as follows:

Member of Assembly—F. A. Cady, County Clerk—E. S. Renne, Treasurer—Jacob Sears, Sheriff—Jas. McLaughlin, Clerk of Court—Chas. Podawitz, District Attorney—Herman Wipperman.

Register of Deeds—E. A. Upham, Surveyor—L. W. Pitts, Supt. of Schools—D. C. Gile.

Herman Wipperman was appointed chairman of the county committee and T. A. Taylor secretary.

Our Nominations.

That the nominations made by the democratic convention this year are good ones there is no doubt, and nobody, even the most rabid republican, says different. The experience of the past two years has proven them to be men who are not only competent to fill the positions they occupy but also men who are not afraid to perform the work as it comes to them and are able to perform it without asking advice from outside parties.

People who have had business at the courthouse during the past two years have been impressed with the manner in which they have been received and the expeditious and neat way in which their business has been disposed of. This is not political bosh but is admitted and commented on by the most conservative people of our community.

A set of conscientious, reliable county officers is a thing that they seem to appreciate and speak of more than one would expect to hear. Why this is, we cannot say, unless it is because it has not always been so.

Our experience in Wood county has not extended over enough time to allow us to say anything about the men who have previously held offices here, but it seems to us that a good, competent man, who has attended strictly to business and made himself a part of the working machinery of an institution of this kind is entitled to some recognition for the work he has done.

The least the people could do would be to continue him in the office he has filled so acceptably.

DAMAGING FLOOD.

WISCONSIN ON THE RAMPAGE.

The Greatest Rise in the River Since the Flood of 1880.—Damage Cannot be Estimated.

The Wisconsin river is at the highest stage that has been known here for many years. Many farms along the river are flooded and the farmers have lost whatever is left in the ground. The loss in this way extends from a long distance above this city to many miles below.

The river at noon today is twelve and a half feet above what it was at low water this summer and there is still a tendency upward. All of the basements along the river bank are flooded and the loss from this source is great in the aggregate.

The Pioneer Pulp company will sustain considerable damage from the high water as it has washed away the west end of the guard lock and has lifted the racks from their places and will ruin them. What the damage in dollars will be cannot be told until the water subsides. The east end of the dam connecting with the old flour mill went out about 9 o'clock this morning.

San Church lost about $100 worth of stuff damaged in the cellar. This consists of wines, liquors, etc.

Ed. Hayes also had wines and liquors stored in his basement, much of which is damaged but he cannot tell what his loss is until the water goes down enough to allow him to get into the cellar.

J. E. Daly's loss will amount to about $150. He had a quantity of wall paper badly damaged, also other stuff stored in barrels in the cellar.

F. L. Steib had stuff damaged but his loss will be light, probably not over $25.

Spafford, Cole & Co. took time by the forelock and got most of their stuff from the basement. Some of the heavy stuff was left and the damage to this will be slight.

Joseph Cohan was a heavy loser by the flood, he having a large quantity of dry goods stored in the cellar. There was about $2000 worth of goods damaged and after they have been disposed of there will probably be a loss of $700 or $800.

The Reporter office has about four feet of water over the floor and Mr. Fontaine was compelled to move everything out. His loss will be considerable but it is hard to estimate at this time.

The paper mills are all shut down their basements being flooded with water. No damage has as yet been reported at any of these places.

Many of the merchants about town worked all night to save stuff that was stored in cellars and basements. Some first built scaffolds and placed goods on these, thinking they would escape the water, but as it continued to rise they were compelled to move it all again, in many instances being in the water above their waists for several hours.

This morning the bridge over Railroad creek at the Eddy was found to be washed out and was impassable except by boat. The water also backed up and, running through the slough, came down River street and was rapidly washing out the roadway, but this was stopped by building a dam across the street at the public library and turning the water back into the river over the sea wall.

Reports from up river points are to the effect that great damage has been done all along the river. Railroad bridges are washed out in many places and the Northwestern has been getting what freight they could through over the Green Bay road, connecting with the Omaha at Merrill Junction. At Wausau great damage has been done about the city, many of the streets being impassable except by boat.

River street south of the bridge has been inundated since early this morning, the water reaching to the sidewalk on the east side of the street. Welch's blacksmith shop has been kept in place by the use of ropes and even with these precautions it is a question whether it can be kept from going down river.

Circuit Court.

Court convened on Monday and several cases have been disposed of.

In the case of the state against Adam Beaster the defendant pleaded guilty.

State against Windline Postweiler occupied several days and the jury could come to no decision, there being eight for conviction and four for acquittal. The jury was discharged yesterday.

State vs. Martha Fahl. Defendant discharged.

Jossie Davidson was also discharged she having satisfied the court that she was not guilty of the charge preferred her.

PROVIDE FOR THE NEEDY.

GRAND RAPIDS, W. S.

RELIEF FOR HUNGRY.

New York, Oct. 2.—At the offices of the various coal-carrying railroads here today it was said that all reports received indicate that the strike situation remains unchanged.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 2.—Reports received here this morning indicate that the 10 per cent. increase in wages offered by some of the coal companies to the miners in this region had no apparent effect in bringing the striking miners back to work. The officials of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, which posted notices last night, report the same number of men at work today as worked yesterday and similar information was received from the various individual collieries where the advance has not yet been offered. The miners work as a rule do not appear to grasp the meaning of the notice as posted by the Lehigh Valley Coal company and declare they will not make a move toward resumption of work until ordered to do so by a miners' convention.

Half a dozen houses in different parts of the city owned by nonstriking workmen were stoned during the night by unknown persons. All of the attacks occurred near midnight. Nobody was hurt, but several persons had narrow escapes from being hit by flying boulders and glass.

President Mitchell, accompanied by members of national executive board of the United Mineworkers and other officials of the union, left here shortly after 11 o'clock for Wilkesbarre, where a big labor demonstration is to take place this afternoon.

Mr. Mitchell's speech at the mass meeting in that city is looked forward to with considerable interest, as it is believed he will reveal to a greater or less extent the line of action that the union will take in regard to the 10 per cent. increase.

No Settlement in Sight.

Spartanburg, Pa., Oct. 2.—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railway company posted notices today that the wages of its employees would be advanced 10 per cent. from October 1, and that the price of powder would be reduced to $1.50. Similar notices were posted today by the Hillsdale Coal & Iron company and the Temple Iron & Coal company. Gen. Supt. Rose of the Delaware & Hudson company said his company would undoubtedly issue the same notice. It has not done so yet.

Strike leaders say the proposals do not come up to the demands of the strikers by any means. There is not today any indication that a settlement will be effected on the increase proposed.

The individual operators have sent a committee to New York to seek a reduction in freight charges, as they say that otherwise they cannot meet the wage advance.

Demonstration at Wilkesbarre.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 2.—President Mitchell and other officers of the national executive board of the United Mineworkers arrived in this city shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. They were welcomed by an enormous crowd at the Lehigh Valley railroad station and there was the greatest enthusiasm. The city was gaily decorated for the parade in which thousands of striking miners marched. Some of the local unions marched many miles to get here.

Many notices were carried in the papers, such as: "Give us a fair day's wages for a fair day's work," "Powder must be reduced," "We are loyal to our union."

After the parade a big mass meeting was held at West Side park which was addressed by President Mitchell and others.

SOLD FOR HIGH PRICES.

Ballyhoo with Coal Purchased by William C. Whitney.

New York, Oct. 2.—John E. Madden has made another sensational horse sale. He has sold to William C. Whitney Ballyhoo, with a foal at her side by Kingston and with an unborn foal by the same sire. The price of these closely-bred animals is said to be $50,000.

The foal is a full brother to Ballyhoo.

Rey. Mr. Whitney's grand 2-year-old, which won the Futurity and Flatbush stakes.

Madden paid J. Will Forsythe $11,000 for the mare and foal the day before the Futurity was run. Thus in one month's time he has made $39,000 on his investment.

If the foals turn out as well as Ballyhoo, Mr. Whitney will have secured a bargain even at the big price he pays for the mare. This is the largest price ever paid for a brood mare in this country.

TINPLATE CONFERENCE.

Agreement Between the American Company and Its Employees.

New York, Oct. 2.—The conferences between officers of the American Tinplate company and men representing their employees have resulted in an agreement on the scale of wages, but some minor demands of the men remain to be settled. The consideration of these were deferred, pending the arrival in this city of some of the district managers of the tinplate company. These men are expected today, when the conference will be continued. It is believed a final agreement will be reached.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

Helen Southgate Not Implicated in Death of B. G. Barbour.

New York, Oct. 2. Helen Parker Forbes, better known by her adopted name of Helen Southgate, appeared at the Borough hall in Brooklyn yesterday to tell Coroner Anthony Burger and a jury how Henry Grosvenor Barbour came to his death in a Brooklyn hotel on the evening of September 13 last.

The jury's deliberations were brief and a verdict of suicide was quickly reached in Barbour's case.

Facts About Promotions.

Promotions are the weapons of preference. They are alike developed in the participation of vegetable and animal matter. All promotions are not poison, and, indeed, investigation has demonstrated that the greater number are not, but science has not been able to distinguish between the deadly and the harmless until somebody has eaten the wrong kind.

A new range-finder has just been invented which, it is said, is a great improvement on all range-finders now in use. The distance of any object can be ascertained by a mere glance through the instrument, it being shown on a little dial the moment the object is focused.

There are in operation in Mexico thirteen cotton mills.

Two weeks together we will witness a great winter, then was over, and a winter in the atmosphere of the region. A distinguished army in the direction of a developed, fast moving, Shensi, which was the local branch of the United Mineworkers held a meeting and selected delegates to a convention to be held at President Mitchell. This is the first announcement of the selection of convention delegates.

A CLEVER SWINDLE.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 3.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon President Mitchell said to the Associated press: "I have just heard the rumor of a settlement, but you can positively say for me that I am not in negotiations with railroad presidents, nor have I received a communication from any of them."

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 3.—W. B. Fairley of Allis-Chalmers, Ind.; Fred Dilcher, Ohio; and Benjamin James, Pennsylvania members of the national executive board, held a private conference at noon today. The questions which were under discussion have not been made known, but it is believed they relate to relief measures. Contrary to the general impression, the striking miners will not be given cash in the way of relief, but will be provided by the union with provisions and clothing for every member of each family needing assistance.

It is believed the plan adopted will provide for the establishment of supply depots in each mining town in charge of the local union officials where the miners can be provided for upon application. The United Mineworkers will pay for the supplies. An official of the union said today that the bituminous miners and other organized labor will send supplies by the carload for the relief of anthracite miners. The same official said the nonunion men on strike will be just as well taken care of as if they belonged to the miners' organization.

New York, Oct. 3.—The coal road presidents continued reticent today concerning the strike situation. At the office of the Erie and Lehigh Valley roads it was said no news had been received during the morning from the mines and that the conditions were without change there so far as they could tell at this distance. John Markle, managing partner of the Markle mines at Hazleton, Pa., did not leave town last night as was reported. He was at the office of the Lehigh Valley Coal company today, but it was said later by Vice-President Sayre of the coal company, had nothing to do with the strike.

At the office of the Pennsylvania Coal company it was said that Vice-President Thorpe had no statement to make. There were two informal meetings of the independent operators, but no action bearing upon strike matters was taken.

Standing Together.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 3.—There is no material change in the strike situation hereabouts this morning. The collieries which have been working since the inauguration of the strike are still in operation. The mineworkers have completely ignored the notices of the Lehigh Valley and the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal companies to the effect that an increase of 10 per cent. has been granted in wages and that the price of powder would be reduced and so far as can be learned about the same number of men are idle today as yesterday.

An attempt was made at 2 o'clock this morning to blow up with dynamite the house occupied by Michael Zulick, a mineworker, in the eastern part of the city, but no extensive damage was caused. Zulick has been working since the strike went into effect. No other case of violence has been reported.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 3.—Gen. Gobin has been informed that a big meeting of mineworkers is scheduled for tomorrow night at Lansford, Pa., in the Panther creek valley, to which locality the strike has not yet penetrated. It is understood that a large number of strikers from the vicinity of Hazleton will attend the meeting. At present there are no indications of trouble, but then, Gobin said today that if troops were needed they will be in readiness. Reports from the Panther creek valley today are to the effect that the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company collieries are still working with full forces, despite the great pressure brought to bear on the men there by strikers from other districts.

It is said that about fifty striking mineworkers from Hazleton are keeping quiet but strenuous efforts to close the collieries. Meetings were held last night at Lansford, Coalwood and Summit Hill, all of which were largely attended but it is impossible to learn how many of the mineworkers joined the union. Similar meetings will be held every night.

Absolute peace reigns in and about Shenandoah. Gen. Gobin said today that he hopes to send the eighth regiment home tomorrow. This will leave the fourth regiment, Battery C and the governor's troop in the field, about 800 men in all. Maj. Farquhar, provost marshal, states that the foreigners in the vicinity of Indian Ridge colliery and the eastern end of Shenandoah are displaying an ugly disposition. He says he has ordered the provost guard to make frequent trips through that section.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 3.—Following the example of the owners of Midvale colliery in shutting down their works until the strike is over, the Shenandoah Coal company's Natalie colliery between here and Mount Carmel was closed down this morning. Before the close 100 men and boys were given employment there, but during the past two weeks the big operation was worked with about 300 men.

Fifty-nine cars were loaded with coal at the North Franklin colliery at Trevorton yesterday, the only Reading company colliery operating in the North Schuylkill region. It was the largest one-day tonnage in the history of the operation.

Strikers on Parade.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 3.—Fifteen thousand strong, the striking coalminers, led by the leaders of the United Mineworkers of America, marched in parade yesterday. Afterward more than 20,000 of the workmen and their friends gathered in mass meeting at West Side park and listened to a speech by President Mitchell, their leader.

The most significant incident of the day was President Mitchell's reference to a proposed convention of miners to decide upon the course they are to pursue. By some it is taken as a hint that the miners may get together in convention and accept the offers of an increase which have been made by the individual operators. However, Mr. Mitchell, in answer to a direct question, said that not one local union in the entire anthracite field had requested the calling of a convention of the miners.

Encouraged by Mitchell.

In his speech President Mitchell said: "This strike shall not be declared off by me. It shall not be ended until a convention of anthracite miners shall decide. Every union and every colliery will be asked to send one or more delegates to a convention to determine the question for themselves. You must decide the question of your going back to work. I will not pretend to determine your fate or that of the 500,000 who are directly affected by this struggle. I firmly believe that victory will be achieved by the men standing together. Do not let one of you move until all move.

Berlin's highest building, apart from the churches, is the 348-foot high chimney of the electric elevated coal powerhouse. Only two church steeples surpass it, that of the new cathedral, 320 feet, and that of the Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial church, 319 feet.

The next outrage took place at Tsin Tsin, China, September 3, via Tsin, San Francisco, Oct. 3. A circumstantial narrative of the massacres in Shan Si province has reached here through a native Christian teacher, who escaped and after a remarkable journey through the country by foot and boat, has just arrived. The refugee's story directly implicates Hu Hsien, the governor of Shan Si, who has previously been charged with instigating and abetting the killing of foreigners. Much of it is too horrible for publication. Men, women, and children were butchered, their bodies mutilated and in many instances their heads placed on the gates of the villages.

So far as known, the first murders occurred June 28, when two women, members of the Chinese mandarins, were killed at Hsin P'ing Hsi. They were Miss Whitechurch and Miss Sewell, who lived close at the mission, a remote place.

The next outrage took place at Tsin Tsin, Yang, about seven and a half miles from Tsin Tsin. There were about 1635 per cent.

KAISER MAKES A REPLY.

Inform Emperor that Libations Do Not Wipe Out Massacres.

Farmer Witnesses a Wedding and Unexpectantly Signs a Note Which is Discounted.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 3.—A Carver county farmer living near Shakopee was recently victimized by a new method. A young couple was married at his house and he signed as a witness to the ceremony. Four days later note for $150 bearing the farmer's signature was discounted at the Carver County bank. Neither the minister nor the bride and groom have been seen since the wedding.

An elderly man in clerical garments stopped at the house of the farmer a few days ago and requested permission to remain all night. He asked the blessing at supper, held family prayers in the evening and won the confidence of the host and his family. Next morning there were more prayers and blessings, and the stranger stayed until late in the afternoon.

Approve Kaiser's Words.

The Freisinnige Zeitung points out that the Emperor's reply is in harmony with the note of Count von Buelow demanding the punishment of the advisers of Kiang Hsu. The paper doubts whether the Chinese ruler will follow the advice to return to Pekin. "Since it would suffice in the downfall of the dynasty of the Manchus."

A high official of the foreign office discusses Kiang Hsu's letter, said:

"We see in this letter fresh proof of the Chinese Emperor's correct sentiments. Throughout all the trouble Germany never doubted the correctness of Kiang Hsu's attitude personally. It was the persons who seized the reins of government from him that were responsible for the atrocities. In the final settlement of accounts with China Germany will not demand harsher treatment for Emperor Kiang Hsu than any other power, not even the United States."

Van Ketteler's Stayer Talks.

Official advice from Pekin, dated September 23, assert that a further examination of the Chinese noncommissioned officer accused of the murder of Baron von Ketteler resulted in this statement: "On June 21 I and my people received orders from a prince to shoot foreigners wherever we came across them."

The accused denied that the order was to shoot a minister, or the German minister, and he declared himself unable to say which prince gave the order.

The Kaiser's Reply.

Following is the reply of Emperor William to the Chinese Emperor's message:

"To the Emperor of China, I, the German Emperor, have received with pleasure your message, the Emperor of China, which you modestly ascribe to your religion to expiate according to the custom and precept of your religion the shameful murder of my minister, which set at nought all civilization, yet, as the German Emperor and a Christian, I cannot regard that abundant crime as atoned for by a baptism. Besides my murdered minister, there have gone before the throne of God a large number of our brethren of the church, fathers, bishops and abbots, women and children, who, in the sake of their faith, which is also mine, have become the violent death of martyrs and executors of your ministry. Do the nations commanded by your ministry suffice for all these innocent ones? I do not make your ministry personally responsible for the outrage against the legations, which are held inviolable among all nations, nor for the grievous wrongs done to many nations and faiths and to the subjects of your ministry and to the subjects of your ministry. ## CHAPTER X.—(Continued.)

In order to conceal his astonishment, Griffiths had to bear in mind that this old gentleman and his son were "Gentlemen or something," and that to people of that kind nothing in the way of sentiment is too extravagant.

"You have seen her, I suppose, sir?" he asked.

"Yes. We sat beside her at a theater. I noticed her when we rose to go. She dropped her fan, and my son picked it up. She smiled on him. That is the only time I have seen her."

"What part of the house were you in?"

"The stalls."

"Which row?"

"The third from the front, I think."

"Was she alone?"

"No, she was with a woman; a woman old enough to be her mother. I disliked her, but I did not see anything in the girl that I disliked."

"Were the stalls well filled?"

"Yes; I did not see one empty seat."

"Then they paid for their seats. Orders would have gone to the back row. That shows they must be pretty well off."

"I have no doubt about that. They were dressed magnificently. Besides, they have a carriage and ride fine horses."

"How did you learn that, sir?"

"My son has seen them in the park three times that night."

"When?"

"Many times—in the afternoon."

Griffiths started to his feet.

"Come along with me, sir," said he. "We may be there in time to catch sight of 'em to-day. Only just point out the female and I'll undertake to find out her name and address and all the rest before the trials are out."

"The cab that had brought Mr. Peterson was standing outside the door."

"That cab won't do," said Mr. Griffiths, at a glance. "The horse is no good, and the man's bad. Pay him, sir."

At the cab stand he found a handsome of his taste—rubber tires, good horse, and a driver as spry as a terrier.

"I may want you to go sharp, and I may want you to go slow," said Griffiths to the driver.

"Yussir," replied the driver attentively, with the perception that he had a good job in hand.

"When I shove the trap up sharp, go like blazes; when I shove it up slow, slacken till it closes, and keep up that pace. Don't stop till I sing out, Understand?"

"Yussir. Where to?"

"Straight before you. Take your direction from my walking stick, and keep a sharp lookout for it. Understand?"

Following these directions the cabman drove like the wind to the park. He turned round, and returned the same way at a smart trot, turning at the corner, and pulling up by the sidewalk within a hundred yards of the entrance.

They had passed scores of carriages, but up to this point Mr. Peterson had failed to detect the ladies they sought, though he had followed several with his eye uneasily.

"Are you pretty certain you'll know the parties if you see 'em?" asked Griffiths, observing the painful anxiety in the old gentleman's face with misgivings.

"I have seen three or four women like the elder of the two, but none like the younger. There is not among them all one so beautiful."

"Seems to me, sir, there's more riders than drivers to-day. Sort o' day that I should take to the saddle if I had the choice. We'll have a look at the Row."

He got out and nodded to the driver as a signal to wait; he also cast a glance at the constable on duty in the road, who, recognizing him, acknowledged the glance by raising his hand in salute. In the Row he stationed himself with Mr. Peterson at the railings.

"Who have you got your eye on, sir?" he asked presently.

A tall, well-built young man, with a fair face and a light mustache, was looking eagerly up the Row.

"I should have taken him for an Englishman—a young gent from college," P. Griffiths soliloquized mentally. "He don't look like a fool—anyways not such a fool as to go mad about a female he's never spoke to."

"I do not see them here," said Mr. Peterson, despondingly.

"P'raps not, sir; but they're here. Don't you see how the young gentleman keeps his eyes turned one way, and takes no notice of anybody passing before him? Keep your eye that way, too, sir—never mind Mr. Eric."

They waited five minutes; then Mr. Peterson, in hushed excitement, murmured: "Those two, I think, I am not sure. Yes, I think the graceful lady on the outer side is the one."

"I am sure of it," said Griffiths, emphatically. "Look at your son."

The young man had drawn back from the rail, and his face transfigured with an ineffable joy, was gazing on the young girl passing before him.

While the old gentleman turned his eyes with tender anxiety upon his son, Griffiths was taking in the two ladies in a penetrating, comprehensive glance. One was of a type he recognized in a moment—a shapely woman of the world with a very white nose, dark eyebrows and a knot of loose, soft, golden hair; the other, a young girl, radiant with health and happiness, her white teeth gleaming through her parted lips; her large, dark eyes sparkling with innocent enjoyment, was certainly not of the kind generally seen with such a companion.

Griffiths shot a glance at the groom that followed them.

"Come on, sir, I've got 'em," he said, exultantly.

"Do you know them?" asked Mr. Peterson.

"No, but I know their groom. They're hired horses, and the groom comes from Dyer's livery stables. However, I shall make sure," he added, as he sprang into

Mr. Redmond's hands when the truth is known."

"That is what I want—the truth. North-ing more."

"Well, I'll have to go at it, sir, and learn all there is to be learnt," said Griffiths, with renewed cheerfulness. "In the meantime, don't you say a word about this to your son."

"Heaven forbid I should do that wrong to Miss Grahame," said Mr. Petersen. He left the office, promising to call the next day.

Griffiths sat for some time in consultation; then he put money in his pocket and went out to buy the truth about Miss Grahame.

At the Grosvenor he learned that Mrs. Redmond and Miss Grahame owed nothing for their board. On leaving they had settled their account with a check for one hundred pounds, drawn in favor of Vanessa Grahame by Hyicus Nichols.

The name was well known to the private detective: Nichols was a professional money lender. It was dated the same day that they left the Grosvenor. It looked as if they had been staying there only till they got the money to pay their bill. But it puzzled Griffiths to imagine how they had got the money out of Nichols; he was the last man in the world to be taken in by pretenses of any kind. It cost Mr. Griffiths two whole days and the best part of a five-pound note before he got within measurable distance of an explanation. He succeeded at length, however, in getting Mr. Benjamin Levy, a clerk to Mr. Hyicus Nichols, into his office, and there brought him to a communicative spirit.

"Mrs. Redmond came to us the very day she left her husband," Mr. Levy explained. "She brought Miss Grahame with her. The young lady was dressed plainly, and looked particularly pale."

"They have done something wrong?"

"I should think they had. Embezzlement; that's what they'll be had up for; and they'll go to prison for it, as sure as my name's Griffiths."

CHAPTER XI.

"You say they will be sent to prison for embezzlement," said Mr. Petersen, reflectively. "Tell me the meaning of that word 'embezzlement'."

"Getting goods under false pretenses—that's what they'll be had up for; and they'll go to prison for it, as sure as my name's Griffiths."

"And yet they keep horses and carriages and dress like that!"

"Why, that's just how they do it. The West End tradesmen are constantly being done. A friend of mine, in the same line of business as myself, is employed by one of these firms to find out whether a new customer is a smuggler or otherwise. I called on him last night and he told me all about these two females. It appears his employers are going for 'em, cost what it may. It's throwing good money after bad, as you may say. They'll never get back a penny for the goods they've let go; but, you see, they have to make a public example now and then to frighten some of the shabby ones into paying up."

"Is that young girl guilty as well as the woman?"

"Both in it, sir; and, from information received, I should say the young girl was more in it than the other. It's she who's let 'em in and got credit all around."

"What is this? Do you tell me that practiced men of business would give large credit to a young girl like that?"

"I don't think they would if they'd known it; but the parties took precious good care they shouldn't. This is how they did it. The young lady has a lot of cards printed with her name, 'Vanessa Grahame,' under a crest, and 'Grahame Towers' over the London address in a corner. But auntie gives the cards, and orders the things to be sent home, and consequently leads me to believe she's Vanessa Grahame. They worked another dodge of the same kind. It seems that they brought a pony carriage to London with 'em—very smart turnout; handsome black cob and silver-plated harness. There was a monogram, 'M. R.' on the panel of the trap, and the same on the harness—showing that it belonged to this Miss Merrivale, who formerly called herself Redmond. Well, the first thing they did was to take off the monogram and stick Miss Grahame's crest in the place of it. Clever, wasn't it?"

"It is dreadful to think of."

"Why, so it is, sir—especially for the creditors. They've hooked the things to Vanessa Grahame and can't get a penny out of her; nor her people, if she's got any, seeing that she's a minor; and silks and furs and horse riding and a villa furnished up to the nines are not exactly necessities to a person in her circumstances. It appears," continued Griffiths, consulting his notebook, "that they came to London Aug. 21—barely two months ago—and put up for a week at the Grosvenor Hotel—there's check for you! Then they went into this villa at St. John's Wood—the Pines."

"Where is St. John's Wood?"

"Northwest district, sir—where a lot of people of this sort live."

"What sort of people?"

"Why, parties who haven't any regular source of income. The party they took this villa is in the musical line, and she's gone to America with an operatic company. There they've been going it like anything—living up to a couple of thousand a year, I should say, what with theaters every night, horse riding, pony carriage and four servants."

Mr. Petersen said something in his own language which was quite incomprehensible to P. Griffiths, but in his voice there was an unmistakable tone of regret.

"I do not see them here," said Mr. Petersen, despondingly.

"P'raps not, sir; but they're here. Don't you see how the young gentleman keeps his eyes turned one way, and takes no notice of anybody passing before him? Keep your eye that way, too, sir—never mind Mr. Eric."

Griffiths shot a glance at the groom that followed them.

"No, I have heard enough," said Mr. Petersen, turning in his chair with a repelling movement of his hand.

"Well," said Griffiths in an injured tone, feeling that his client had every reason to be satisfied with the result of his inquiries.

"Yes, you have done well."

"I thought you didn't seem quite satisfied."

"No, I am not satisfied when I think of that young girl, as I have seen her, quite a young maid—not older than my own daughter."

"Well, there's nothing more to be done," said Griffiths.

"Yes there is," replied Mr. Petersen, after a moment's reflection: "find out more about Miss Grahame. All we know now is what you have learned from a man occupied in securing evidence to convict her of evil. I cannot believe that she is quite wicked, and I am sure—yes, quite sure—that my son will not believe it."

"Why, as you say, sir, it's only one man's opinion, and he's biased. There's one or two points in the case that I can't quite make out satisfactorily, and it may be she'll turn out to be only a tool in this business."

"Well, I'll have to go at it, sir, and learn all there is to be learnt," said Griffiths, with renewed cheerfulness. "In the meantime, don't you say a word about this to your son."

"I should think they had. Embezzlement; that's what they'll be had up for; and they'll go to prison for it, as sure as my name's Griffiths."

"Read this, if you please," says Mrs. Redmond, laying a paper on the table before the governor as soon as they were seated.

"He reads it—so did I afterward. It was a will, leaving an estate worth forty or fifty thousand pounds to Miss Grahame, to be hers when she's twenty-one, with a codicil placing her under the guardianship of James Redmond until she comes of age, and bequeathing the whole estate to him in the event of her dying a minor. Do you see?"

Griffiths nodded.

"When the governor had read it through, Mrs. Redmond said, 'This is Miss Grahame; I am the wife of her guardian, James Redmond. I have given up my home and all I have in the world, and brought this unfortunate young lady to London in order to save her from being murdered by the most infamous scoundrel living—such a scoundrel is my husband, James Redmond.'

DEMOCRATS MEET.

COUNTY OFFICERS NOMINATED.

X Harmonious Convention. General Satisfaction Expressed with the Men now in Office.

The democratic convention convened at the city hall in this city at 2:30 o'clock. A good representation was present from all over the county and the convention proceeded with harmony all the way through. Pretty general satisfaction has been felt by the democrats and the people at large for the present incumbents in office and it was the feeling of all that they were entitled to a second term in the offices they have filled so acceptably. It is certain that there has never in the past been so competent a set of county officers in the court house as has existed during the past two years, and the people of Wood county can do no better than to vote for them again in the same capacity.

The nominations were as follows:

Member of Assembly—A. E. Germer, of Dextrerville.

County Clerk—W. H. Reeves of Grand Rapids.

County Treasurer—M. G. Fleckenstein of Marshfield.

Sheriff—P. Ward of Grand Rapids.

Clerk of Court—Wm. White of Pitts-ville.

District Attorney—D. D. Conway of Grand Rapids.

Register of Deeds—James Vaughan, of Marshfield.

Surveyor—Donald McRae.

Coroner—W. H. Geiss.

Superintendent of Schools—Otto J. Len.

L. M. Nash was re-elected chairman of the county committee and Adam Paulus, secretary.

The Cucumber Industry.

Now that the experiment of raising cucumbers in this section has been tried and found to be a success it would be well for our citizens to make some move toward the establishment of a salting station at this point. Alert & McGuire, the people who have engineered the matter in this section during the past season, think that this is as good a place for an establishment of this kind as can be found and they stand ready to co-operate with our people in the enterprise.

During the past summer there has been a small acreage of cucumbers planted in this section and from a financial standpoint the experiment has been a success. The figures show that the returns have been from $30 to $75 per acre, and that in a season that was an unusual one from the fact that there was a long drought just after the seed was planted, stunting the vines to a great extent and in fact preventing the seed from sprouting at all in some instances. The company's books show that in many instances the income per acre averages over $100, which shows a profit greater than most of the crops raised by farmers about this section.

The soil in the immediate vicinity of Grand Rapids is peculiarly adapted to the establishment of small gardens and patches where cucumbers could be successfully raised, but is not such that would invite cultivation on a large scale, so that an annual revenue amounting to thousands of dollars might be realized from sections which are at the present time producing very little.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25 cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

EARL RIDGMAN WRITES.

Encountering Varied Experiences in the U. S. Navy.

Earl Ridgman, son of Dr. Ridgman of this city, who has been second engineer on the cruiser Buffalo, writes his father from Cape Town, Africa, as follows:

CAPE TOWN, S. AFRICA, Aug. 21, 1900.

DEAR FATHER: Well, here I am, down here in an entirely different part of the world from which I expected to be at this time when I wrote you last from Gibraltar, and I must tell you the reason.

After I wrote you we got orders to wait until a German ship came with provisions and ammunition for us. The following Sunday we were granted leave and, as there was not much happening on the rock, several of us decided to make a visit to Malaca, a Spanish town, where there was a bull fight.

We saw the bull fight all right but after it was all over about a hundred Spaniards closed in on us and for a few minutes there was a hot time in the old town. We were taken to jail where we were kept ten days until our ship left and we had been marked as deserters. Then the Spaniards took us to the American consul to get the reward money offered for deserters, but they failed to get the boddies they had figured on. In fact they did not get a cent. We reported on the U. S. S. Porter and she was ordered here. From here we go to China via Manila.

This place is very pretty, being situated at the foot of the noted Table mountain on Table Bay. There are many parks and gardens about the city, but at present there isn't much business here, but after the war is over no doubt the place will take a boom. Last Sunday I took a walk up the mountain and picked some silver leaves which grow on the side of the mountain.

I should like very much to see all the folks at home once more, but expect it will be some time yet before I do, probably not before next June. They say we will not stay long in China, but will go around the "Horn" for home, and I hope so, as that will more than put me around the world.

The British brought about 700 Boers down on flat cars this morning. They were placed on board ship and are now on their way to the Isle of Ceylon off the coast of India. I think they will ring off fighting for a time. I will close now, with love to all.

E. P. RIDGMAN.

The doctor received another letter from his son on Tuesday under date of Sept. 20 from London saying that their boat had been ordered to London instead of China. On their way from Cape Town they touched at St. Helena Island where they saw the tomb of Napoleon. Here were confined 4,000 Boer prisoners also 1,000 Americans who had been captured while fighting with the Boers. They also touched at Cape Verde. Earl also stated that he expected to be transferred to the torpedo boat Porter, and that they would visit Galveston, Texas, for a few days after which they would go to China.

The ladies of the Catholic church at Nekoosa will serve a chicken chowder in Brooks' hall on Wednesday evening, Oct. 10, to which all are cordially invited.

On the 10th of December, 1897, Rev. S. A. Donahoe, pastor M. E. church, South Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., contracted a severe cold which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. He says: "After resorting to a number of so-called 'specifics' usually kept in the house, to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy, which acted like a charm. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public." For sale by Johnson & Hill Co.

Wm. Anna was released from the county jail on Friday, having served his term out. Mr. Anna states that while he was confined in jail several people who had professed to be his friends tried to induce his wife and family to leave him and go to the poor farm and become a charge on the county. Also that they approached him and wanted him to sell his farm and horse for a very low figure in order to get hold of the property. This, Mr. Anna thinks, is rather a low piece of business.

During the winter of 1897 Mr. James Reed, one of the leading citizens and merchants of Clay, Clay Co., W. Va., struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to bruise it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians, also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whisky in bathing it, but nothing gave any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought almost complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Pain Balm is unequalled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by Johnson & Hill Co.

In every community there are many sufferers from chronic diseases who have to an extent become resigned to their afflictions. We seem to get used to our conditions however painful they may be. No doubt there are persons in and around Grand Rapids who have really forgotten what it is to be well, to be the happy possessors of health. In many instances they have—perhaps tried to be cured, but found no help, and have finally resigned themselves to their fate. It is to this unfortunate class that the visits of Dr. McElwee, the eminent specialist will have particular interest. The stories of the wonderful cures he has performed at Tomah and other near-by cities, would be dismissed as unworthy of consideration were they not substantiated by the most prominent citizens. In Tomah, it is said, there is difficulty in seeing the doctor, so great is the number of invalids that monthly throng his office for two days, to secure health at his hands. The doctor himself claims that not a little of his success is due to his using a line of rare imported remedies from Europe's most skillful chemists. In cases of rheumatism, painful stomach troubles, asthma, nervous and skin diseases, these fine drugs get cures promptly when ordinary, shop-worn medicines are worse than useless.

SET FIRE TO A HOTEL.

Thieves Break in and Get What They Can.

Incendiaries Piled Rubbish Against Side of Building at Waukeehah, Mich., and Ignite It.

Marquette, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] The Waukeehah hotel at Waukeehah, Mich., was totally destroyed by fire last night, and another building next door was partially destroyed. The total loss is $3,000, with no insurance. The fire was set by thieves, who stole $120 from the saloon and attempted to burglarize the store. The incendiaries piled rubbish against the side of the hotel, saturated it with kerosene and set fire to it. It was with great difficulty that the fire was prevented from spreading over the entire village. The hotel destroyed was one of the old landmarks of the Menominee range, having been built in 1870.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Oct. 3. [Special.] Two suspects have been landed in jail here, charged with setting the Waukeehah hotel on fire.

MRS. PENNOYER DEAD.

The Widow of Dr. Edgar Pennoyer of Kenosha Passes Away.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] Mrs. Hulda Weid Pennoyer, widow of Dr. Edgar Pennoyer and one of the best-known women in southern Wisconsin, died at her home in the Pennoyer sanitarium, north of this city, this morning. The deceased was nearly 80 years of age and had been a resident of Kenosha for half a century. With her husband she assisted in the founding of the old Kenosha water cure, which later became the Pennoyer sanitarium. She was a woman of great culture and her home has always been one of the main meeting-places of the cultured people of Kenosha. She was well known in many other cities in the state. Three children survive: Dr. Nelson Pennoyer and Miss Alice Pennoyer of this city and Milton Pennoyer of the J. V. Farwell company, Chicago.

SHEEP STOCK FARM.

T. W. Laughlin Buys Large Tract of Property in Taycheedah, Fond du Lac County.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] T. W. Laughlin, formerly manager of the Grand Central dry goods house in this city, who has made a special study of the sheep industry the past few years, has just purchased 143 acres in the town of Taycheedah, and makes the announcement that in the event of McKinley's election he will use the farm exclusively for sheep-raising. He takes possession of the property at once. The money consideration in the deal was $7000.

Mr. Laughlin now resides in the village of Taycheedah, where he has a large tract of lake-shore property. The farm he has purchased of Anthony Welsh lies on the east side of the Waukeehah, just two miles from the village and a mile north of Peebles Corner. A brook fed by springs runs diagonally through the property, all of which is hilly and backed by the ledge. There are twenty acres of woods on the farm, which is peculiarly suited for sheep-raising.

MILLS MAY SHUT DOWN.

Menominee River So High It is Impossible to Sort Logs.

Marquette, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] A heavy rain and wind storm passed over Marquette early this morning. The wind did some damage, and the fall of rain was the heaviest known in years. The Menominee river is now higher than it has been at any time this year, and loss is feared from high water. The boom company will probably have to suspend the sorting of logs on account of the high water, and this will shut down most every sawmill in Marquette and Menominee. For several days past it has been almost impossible to sort logs.

MOTHER'S AWFUL DEED.

Two Rivers Woman Clasps Daughter in Her Arms and Jumps Into Water.

Two Rivers, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] Mrs. Valentine Ronquier committed suicide by drowning last night, taking with her her 2-year-old daughter. The bodies of both, clasped in a last embrace, were recovered at 3 o'clock this morning by the lifesavers in the Mishicot river, in about three feet of water.

The cause of the terrible deed is attributed to constant worrying because her husband intended to take up farming, to which she had a decided aversion. Her husband recently acquired a farm near Merrill and is there at present.

She was 23 years of age and is survived by a son 4 years of age, besides her husband and parents.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED.

Tries to Save Property from Destruction—She will Not Recover.

Deerfield, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] The barn of Anton Lacount of this city was destroyed by fire last evening, the work of an incendiary. Mrs. Lacount, who is an elderly woman, attempted to recover some articles from the burning building and was badly burned. The physicians enter into no hopes of her recovery.

BADGER PRIZES OFFERED.

University of Wisconsin Students Publication is After Contributions.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] Thirty prizes have been offered to the students for the best productions for the Badger. The competition work is in literary, artistic, comic, features, and art work, and the prizes are cash and merchandise. The Badger, which is a purely student publication, has a wide-spread reputation in the West, similar to the Yale and Harvard publications in the East, and the best in that work is by no means confined to the student body. Old copies of the Badger have sometimes brought handsome prices.

Large Contracts Classed.

Tomahawk, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] The regular annual meeting of the board of directors of the Bradley-Watkins Fire company and of the Pacific Fire company were held in this city and directors and officers elected for the ensuing year. Several large coal contracts have already been taken and others are being considered.

SOON BE IN OPERATION.

Work on Prairie River Extension of Marinette, Tomahawk & Western Road.

Tomahawk, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] The work on the Prairie river extension of the Marinette, Tomahawk & Western railway is progressing favorably and it is expected that the company will begin operating fifteen miles of the road by December 1, and the extension of the Spirit river division will be brought into use about the same time. Thus the about $10000 have been purchased for the new extension. The 15-mile rail line on the Spirit division of the Marinette, Tomahawk & Western railway are being replaced by new 60-pound steel rails owing to increased traffic. The division is six miles in length and extends from this city to Tomahawk Junction.

Tomahawk will be illuminated by electricity within fifteen days. Wires and lamps are up and machinery is being placed.

The city has an excellent system of sewers, the city building is progressing finely and will be under roof by October 15. It is of solid brick two stories. Excavation is completed for the big brick block, corner of Wisconsin and Tomahawk avenues. The Macraeans are erecting a large block on the corner of Fourth street and Wisconsin avenue. The new brick plant inside the city limits is producing 20000 brick daily. Post offices have been established at Bay Mills, Spirit Falls and Gonda, on the Marinette, Tomahawk & Western railway. A farmer's fair day will be held once a month at Spirit Falls.

The mills are all running and will continue until the river freezes up. The last drive of the season on the Wisconsin river, between Tomahawk and Rhinelander, has reached this city. It contained 100000 feet of lumber belonging principally to the United States Lumber company of Tomahawk. Other owners are the Merrill Lumber company, Alex. Stewart Lumber company, Gilkey & Anson and others.

The Mitchell hotel has closed a successful season's business. The house has been filled with tourists from Tennessee, Illinois, Minnesota, southern Wisconsin and other states.

PROTEST BY BISHOP.

Dowie, the Zionite, Wants to Import Lascivious into This Country.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] It having been stated that Dowie, of Zion notoriety, was about to import a colony of lascivious from Nottingham, England, for his new "heaven" near Chicago, hoping to escape the application of the alien contract-labor law on the plan that lacemaking is a new industry in this country, Bishop Grafton of Fond du Lac diocesan recently wrote letters of protest to the secretary of state and the commissioner of Indian affairs at Washington. The protest was made on the ground that the industry of lacemaking was introduced several years ago among the Indians of the mission schools, Oneida, Keshena and other points, and now is, as it has been for some years, in successful operation. It is announced in the last number of the American Churchman, the official publication of the Fond du Lac diocese, that the bishop has received satisfactory replies on the subject from the department.

AGAINST SYRIAN PRIEST.

Bishop Grafton Withdraws His Letter of Commendation Given to Marcus C. Daniel.

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] Clerical circles in Outagamie county and various points along the Fox River valley are somewhat exercised over the actions of Marcus C. Daniel, claiming to be an ordained minister of Kurdistan, Syria, who has recently solicited funds for a church in Syria at various points in the state. Charges of unchristian conduct have been made against him by Lutheran ministers at Ripon and Appleton, and Bishop Grafton of Fond du Lac has now published in the American Churchman a notice of withdrawal of a letter of commendation given recently to Daniel, his reason for the withdrawal being given as "in consequence of information received since date of letter."

GRIEF CAUSES SUICIDE.

Mary Strandburg of West Superior Driven Insane by Loss of Husband and Child.

West Superior, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] Crazed by grief for her late husband and child, Mary Strandburg drowned herself in Newton creek in this city.

NEARLY A MURDER.

Lively Saloon Row at Ashland Causes Many Arrests.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 3.—A row occurred in a Pihlander saloon here in which about fifteen Pihlanders participated. When the fracas was over, it is alleged, J. Reel, the proprietor of the saloon, shot twice at one Ruland. The first shot almost immediately off the top of his head, but the other was inflicted in Ruland's back near the heart. The chief of police and two patrolmen raided the place and arrested every occupant. They were arraigned in municipal court and all but Reel, the man who did the shooting, pleaded guilty to being drunk and disorderly. Reel was charged with assault with intent to kill and his hearing was continued.

TRAMPS FIGHT SHERIFF.

Men Charged with Obnoxious Robbery Arrested at Jefferson.

Johnson's Creek, Wis., Oct. 3. Fred Jachuck of Jefferson and four associates arrested five tramps in the stockyards here after a desperate fight. Two of the tramps had a lot of cutters and several revolvers which they had been trying to sell. It is supposed that the goods were stolen from the Percy Gun company store at Oshkosh two nights ago. The tramps are held pending identification of the articles found upon them.

Oshkosh, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] Sheriff White has gone to Jefferson to identify the revolvers found on men arrested there suspicion of robbing the Percy Gun store in this city.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

House at Marinette Set on Fire and Girl Shocked.

Marquette, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] The home of John Leonardson was struck by lightning early this morning. The entire house was shattered and severely damaged. There were twelve people in it at the time and all escaped in safety except a daughter, who was rendered unconscious. The house was set on fire but the flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

Plymouth, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] The barn belonging to John Zell, living three miles southwest of here, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed, including grain and one horse. It was partly covered by insurance.

WOMAN KILLED BY HORSE.

Tied a Halter Around Her Neck and Hitched it to Animal.

THE HORSE RAN AWAY.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 2. [Special.] The facts in the death of Mrs. Frederick Grover, a resident of Ann Arbor, a small town north of here, brought on by the horses that on Sunday afternoon she went into the pasture to get a horse with which to drive to where her husband conducts a cheese factory, a mile distant. She carelessly tied one end of the rope halter around her neck and the other around the horse's neck. The animal became frightened and for fully an hour ran around the pasture with the human body attached to the rope. Finally the animal tired and stopped. A man passing on the road saw the body of a woman lying on the ground and he attempted to release it, when the animal again started on its mad race. It was some time before it was captured. The body was roughly mutilated. Not a stitch of clothes was left on it, the head was battered into pulp and was unrecognizable and nearly every bone in the body was broken. The rope was just the length to allow the body to come in contact with every fatal blow of the horse's heels.

SUICIDE ON DAY OF THE WEDDING.

Frank Whitehead of Whitewater Shoots Himself on His Nuptial Morn.

Whitewater, Wis., Oct. 2. [Special.] Frank Whitehead, a farmer 35 years of age, living near this city, committed suicide this morning, shooting himself with a shotgun. He was to have been married at 2 o'clock this afternoon to Miss Lillie Taylor of this city. The families of both are highly respected and in good circumstances. Miss Taylor is prostrated with grief.

Everything was in readiness for the wedding. Whitehead had ordered a complete outfit of furniture for his house and the dealer, who is also the undertaker, was on his way to the house with the furniture when word was brought to him to get a coffin and care for the body of the prospective groom.

Groom was Frightened.

The only cause for the rash deed of Whitehead is that he was frightened. He had been engaged for about a year, but it was known that he felt shy and disliked the idea of the wedding ceremony. Yesterday he told one of his tailors that he did not feel that he could stand up and get married before all of the people who would be present and that he would give anything if he could get out of going through the ceremony. He was nervous all day yesterday and walked about his room all last night. This morning after breakfast he took his shotgun and went to his room. Shortly afterwards a report was heard.

Whitehead tied a string to the trigger and placed the muzzle to his head and then pulled the string. The charge entered his head, blowing the top of it off. Death was instantaneous.

No letter or note was left by the dead man. Wood was hurriedly carried to Mr. Taylor, the father of the bride-to-be. He was terribly shocked. When Miss Taylor was told of the awful affair she fainted away and has been prostrated since.

The young farmer was very prosperous and both his family and that of Miss Taylor were wealthy. The parents of both had each drawn $1000 from the bank to be presented to the couple after the wedding. This afternoon the St. Paul and New Richmond high school football teams played a game. Tonight there will be a big Republican demonstration with addresses by C. A. Metcalf of Milwaukee and H. F. Coopers.

New Richmond, Wis., Oct. 2. [Special.] The postponed New Richmond fair opened most auspiciously today. The sun shone for the first time in a week. The weather was ideal and a great crowd was in attendance. Over sixty houses are entered for the two-days' harness races, in addition to seventeen in the running races. This afternoon the St. Paul and New Richmond high school football teams played a game. Tonight there will be a big Republican demonstration with addresses by C. A. Metcalf of Milwaukee and H. F. He DID HIS DUTY.

Policeman Eck of Marinette will Not be Prosecuted for Murder.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 2. [Special.] The case of the state against Christian Eck, charged with murder, was dismissed here today. The prosecuting attorney filed reasons for not prosecuting Eck as the policeman who shot and killed William Mitchell, a union cigar maker, several months ago. The latter was engaged in trapping and farming. He is survived by a wife and family of ten grown-up children. Funeral services will take place from the St. Luke's Catholic church.

WISCONSIN SWISS CELEBRATE.

Dedication of the Reformed Church at New Glarus.

New Glarus, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] Sunday and yesterday were notable days among the Swiss of this vicinity. It was the occasion of Kibbi, a holiday to commemorate the dedication of the Swiss Reformed church of this place. Aside from the usual religious ceremony, it is customary to celebrate the event with sharpshooting contests, and sharpshooters from many miles distant congregated here to test their skill.

STRUCK IN THE MOUTH.

Lumbermill Hand is Dangerously Injured at Wausau.

Wausau, Wis., Oct. 3. [Special.] Joe Nemeck, employed by the Bird & Wells Lumber company on their sawmill, was struck in the mouth by a pine log hurled by a saw, striking him in the mouth, knocking out several teeth and badly lacerating his face. He was unconscious for several hours, and is in a precarious condition.

THREE ARE ARRESTED.

They Had Burglar Tools and Fired at Officer.

Hudson, Wis., Oct. 3. James Martin, John Lusk and James Raubse were brought here from Baldwin on the charge of carrying burglar tools and having designs upon the Herzen mercantile establishment at Baldwin. One of the gang was set upon October 2, and the officers were remained to the court on the 3d.

SEARCHING FOR RELATIVES.

Former Resident of Marinette Dies in Alaska Leaving Estate.

Marquette, Wis., Oct. 2.—The chief of police received word from Juneau, Alaska, that Orin Cole, a former resident of this city, died there, leaving an estate valued at $300,000. He has relatives in this state, and an effort is being made to locate them. He was in the lumber business here.

With Dewey at Manila.

Racine, Wis., Oct. 2. Dick Covert, who has been in the United States navy for the past three years, and who was on board the United States steamer Baltimore during the famous battle of Manila, arrived home, having been discharged. During the battle young Covert had his leg broken by a heavy shell falling on it. He has had all of the navy work to do

Elephants Becoming Scarce.

It is no secret to those concerned in Oriental trade that elephants are becoming scarce; but not many people in England know what has been the increase in price. According to the annual in Ceylon, the price in northern Siam has gone up threefold. In that country the elephant is essential to drag timber from the forests, and while the cost of animal power has increased to such an extent, manual labor has also become more expensive, and like elephantine labor, is becoming exceedingly difficult to obtain.—London Globe.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing and takes the place of coffee. The more GRAIN-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. GRAIN-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs about  $\frac{1}{4}$  as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

WALKING IN BROADWAY.
I've come to the city of the Muses,
To sing in the halls of Westmoreland,
And sing down safe and dry.
I've walked all sorts of ways,
From Spain to France,
But nothing like this can be compared To walking Broadway.

Chorus: To me are laid and laid,
And placed my weight;
I've gone to the base of the deepest city,
Upon the darkest night;
But all that is easy enough,
And verily what's play,
Compared to the trials that I perform
In walking Broadway.

—P. A. C. in New York Mail and Express.

Miss Daisy Leiter, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Levi Leiter, reached New York recently on the steamer Oceania. She came home by way of Paris, where she was joined by Mrs. Leiter, who had previously returned from India. Miss Leiter said that she enjoyed her trip immensely. She was dressed in a two-heads-in-the-neck gown with hat to match. Nine-tenths of her travel outfit. Since she left America in February, 1889, to visit her sister, Lady Cazen, the wife of the viceroy of India, she has been separated, engaged, many times. First she was said to have accepted the Earl of Suffolk and to the viceroy. Next it was Major Colin Campbell who had the beautiful Chelengoo girl. This, however, was more than a year ago and other suitors have followed. During her stay in India Miss Leiter was admiring not only for her beauty, but also for her accomplishments as a whip and her courage during a wild boar hunt. She saved the life of her escort. His horse, wounded by a savage wild boar, had thrown him to the ground. Miss Leiter, using all her strength, speared the boar as it was charging on her prostrate escort. This respite gave him time to get to his feet and finish the work begun by Miss Leiter.

—Cupid is reaping a rich harvest of hearts this autumn. In the fashionable world of the 400 the weddings will follow each other closely all through October and November. Foremost in social importance is that of Miss Louise Morgan, the elder daughter of J. Pierpont Morgan, the multi-millionaire banker to Herbert Livingstone Satterlee, a New York lawyer. It is said that Mr. Satterlee's bride will bring him a dower of $1,000,000, the gift of her father, whose favorite child she is. Mr. Satterlee is a member of the New York Naval militia, and served as a member of Gov. Morton's and Gov. Black's staffs. Another wedding to be celebrated during November is that of Miss May Harper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Henry Harper, to Lauder Barrett Valentine, a Harvard man of the class of '87. Still another wedding in which society is interested is that of Miss Edith Whitney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Whitney, to Henry Lewis Batterman. Miss Elizabeth Barnes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burl Barnes, will be married on November 8 to William B. Potts.

Matches at golf over the country between New York and Chicago with a few hazards like rivers and mountain ranges thrown in may become fashionable. Or soon the truly athletic golfer may play over the imaginary links that stretch between Portland, Me., and Portland, Or. Dr. E. R. Pearce, J. C. Holmebeck and Eugene Crossman of the Hackensack Golf club will set this fashion of long-distance cross-country golf. They have made a match that is attracting much attention among all New Jersey golfers. Each has posted $50 for a sweepstakes. They will start on Saturday morning and, after playing over the Hackensack links, they will make a cross-country play for the links of the North Jersey Country club at Paterson. All strokes will count. Only two clubs can be used. Many wagers have been laid on the result and many friends of the three men will accompany them over the ground. After they have played the North Jersey Country club's links they will find a fine dinner awaiting them.

It has just leaked out that the stage has lost Ethel Irene Stewart, one of its sweetest and prettiest singers. Even the most intimate friends of the actress were ignorant until now of the fact that Miss Stewart and John L. Elliott, a millionaire owner and resident of this city, were married at Holland house on August 3 last. One evening while Miss Stewart was playing at the Victoria Mr. Elliott saw her and fell in love. In time he was formally presented to her, and lost no time in pressing his suit, with the result stated. Many years ago the young woman's parents, who were wealthy, resided in Los Angeles. Business reverses and the father's death came in course of time. Obliged to support her mother and herself, Miss Stewart came to New York and began her stage career under the management of Klaw & Erlanger. Next came her marriage, and with it comfort and affluence.

Right on top of the news that Mr. Klaw and Daniel Frohman had decided to go their separate ways after the current season comes the announcement that Charles Frohman and Henry Miller have likewise decided to part company. His three-years contract with Mr. Frohman expired last July, and it has not been renewed. It is not apparent that there were any special disagreements between Mr. Miller and Mr. Frohman, no "Richard Carvel" affair to cause trouble; but whatever the reason, Mr. Miller and Mr. Frohman have parted. Mr. Miller has long been associated with Mr. Frohman's forces, and after several years of popularity as leading man in the Empire Stock company he was stumped with considerable success, his greatest hit of all being made last season in "The Only Way."

What a lucky thing for Shakespeare that he died before Richard Mansfield decided to produce his "Henry V." remarks the New York Evening Sun. If he were alive today, he might naturally have insisted upon taking some part in the stage management. But we venture to predict—no matter where Mr. Shakespeare may be now, nor how high the number of degrees of Fahrenheit in his vicinity may be—that he would be suddenly forced to return to life, after one short experience of a Mansfieldian rehearsal, he would hurry back to his old quarters singing, in the words of his contemporary poet, "I left my happy home for York." Since the rehearsals of "Henry V." began, no less than eight actors and three horses have been agonizingly "fired" from the cast.

The season of public coaching in New York is to be opened on Tuesday next, the first day of the Morris park races. The Good Times, veteran of many seasons of public coaching in this and other cities, will be tested between the Washington and Morris park on each race day by Axel Brundin. The coach is booked to leave at 11:30 o'clock, and will reach Morris park in time for luncheon. The season as planned is to be a month long, at least, and may be longer. Plans are being laid for coaching events next spring on an extensive scale. Two four-in-hands are to be put in service one on a short route and the other on a long route of probably sixty miles, round Preparations for the wedding of Miss Elsie French and Alfred G. Vanderbilf, which will take place early in January, are already under way at Newport. The wedding is not to be a large one, and it is stated that Robert L. Gerry is to be best man. Bishop Potter will perform the ceremony at Trinity church and he will be assisted by Rev. Henry Morgan, rector of Trinity church, and Rev. E. J. Denison, the assistant rector. The wedding breakfast will be served at Barber's, the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. F. O. French.

Miss Lulu Glaser's new operetta, written by Louis de Lange and Edgar Smith, with music by W. H. Neidlinger, will be called "Sweet Anne Page." The title would seem to indicate that the inspiration of the work had been drawn from Shakespeare's "The Merry Wives of Windsor," but such is not the case. The action occurs in England in 1688 and deals with the landing of William of Orange. It takes its title from the fact that its leading character enacts the part of Sweet Anne Page in a troupe of strolling players.

Among the many actresses staying at the Hotel Walton in Philadelphia lately was Miss Bettina Girard—looking younger and prettier than she has at any time in the past ten years. One of the hotel clerks at the Walton has an autograph album in which all the visiting celebrities inscribe their names. When Miss Girard was asked to add her name to the clerk's collection the other day she wrote in a large, round, steady hand: "Yours in ginger ale exclusively—Bettina Girard."

Elwyn A. Barron has written a play for E. S. Willard, called "Punchinello." The same title was used by John Ernest McFano for a play founded on Molloy's pretty ballad about Punchinello and Colombe, which was suggested by Richard Mansfield and written expressly to fit him, but has never yet found a purchaser. The Willard piece deals with the life of a strolling Italian actor.

Oscar Hammerstein's new playhouse has been opened. Several novelties in theatrical architecture have been brought into play, notably the housing of the orchestra in the proscenium arch, which can be heard but not seen. Connected with the orchestra stand is an electric organ in the gallery, used in connection with all orchestral numbers.

The Prince of Wales is to be the guest a few days hence of Col. and Mrs. Ralph Vivian at Delfin Lodge, near Fochabers, in Scotland, for the shooting. Mrs. Vivian, who was a Miss Endicott, was the widow of Marshal O. Roberts of New York, at the time when she married Col. Vivian.

James Henry Smith, whom the London papers miscall "Mr. Cooper," the heir to "Chicago" Smith's millions, has leased a manor in Strathspey, Scotland, where he has recently been de-stalking, in company with Clarence Mackay, Mr. Frohman and Mr. Mackay intend returning home early next month.

Willie Collier's wife, who is the leading lady in "On the Quiet," lost her $300 diamond engagement ring on the street at New London, Conn. It was found by Mrs. Chappelle of that place, Collier and his wife went to New London and proved ownership.

The Rogers Brothers played to gross receipts of $12,000 the first week, and Klaw & Erlanger, their managers, presented Gas and Max Rogers each with a beautiful gold watch to commemorate their extraordinary success.

This Season the Number of Tourists Breaks All Previous Records.

The events of home and abroad in America has commanded, and during the next few weeks thousands of our patriotic visitors will be enabled to visit the Atlantic coast, west of the Atlantic line. The emigration to the Cunard line in 1879, the Cunard company lost with keen competition, but they held their own, and in 1885 they added the Pusan to their fleet, and she averaged a speed of 13.1 knots per hour, which eclipsed every previous performance by any steamer. The average length of passage from Liverpool to New York was then twelve days.—London Daily Mail.

NEKOOSA.

Chris. P. Thompson and Miss Lura Wakely were married last Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Wakely. The wedding was a very pretty one the bride being attended to her sister, Miss Wakely and the two Misses Thompson sisters of the groom, Miss Ethel Scott was ring bearer. A large number of guests were present and merry making was kept up till a late hour. The newly wedded couple have gone to housekeeping in a home already furnished by the groom. They both have hosts of friends who wish them good luck and prosperity.

Word was received here last Monday by Mr. and Mrs. J. Kuter of the death of their grandson, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Chamberlain of Necedah, by cholera infantum. The little boy was brought here Monday evening interment taking place the next day.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church resumed their meetings again last Wednesday, after a three months' vacation. They meet next week with Mrs. Marvin.

Mrs. A. E. Gurdy and Mrs. J. E. Thomas drove to Grand Rapids last Thursday and were guests of Mrs. F. J. Cameron at the "thimble bee" given by her for Miss Ward.

W. E. Ue returned to his home at Stevens Point last Tuesday, having completed his large contract with the Nekoosa Paper Co.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Ray departed for Rockford, Ill., last Wednesday for a couple of weeks' visit with Mrs. Ray's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Netherwood of Oregon, Wis., arrived last Thursday night and are guests of their daughter, Mrs. A. Marvin.

Miss Sue Beeston visited at the home of her brother, Martin Beeston, in Grand Rapids last Sunday.

CRANMOOR.

On some of the marshes the gathering of the cranberries is finished while on many others the picking is still in progress. Scarcity of pickers and very unfavorable weather the last two weeks has made the picking later than usual. Berries are picked on the Gaynor, Bennett, Whittlesey and Carey marshes, this week will probably complete the work on the Steel, Kruger, Fitch and Foley marshes. The Rezin Bros. have a good many berries yet to get in and it will take some time to get all from the Arpin marsh. Mr. Arpin had abundance of water to save fruit from the frost without the aid of recent rains, everyone now must be well supplied for perhaps the heaviest rainfall of the season came to us this week and water is evident everywhere.

Cranmoor did not appear in the last issue of the Tribune because of the many other things that engrossed the attention of your correspondent. We do not like to miss a number, for aside from the home people to whom these items are of interest, we know of some "down east" "out west" and scattered along the line who look for our corner with a peculiar eagerness. To these friends we want to say that old time conditions do not yet exist with cranberry growers, but we are all making some headway in that direction.

Richard Rezin and S. N. Whittlesey, who were drawn to serve as jurors this term of court, went to the county seat Monday morning to respond to roll call.

A. E. Bennett went to Marshfield Tuesday as a delegate to the republican convention.

Edward Kruger and guest from Minnesota were up town visitors Thursday.

Mr. Dodge and a trio of friends drove down Sunday from Port Edwards.

Dr. Boorman was down again Tuesday looking after his patient, Mrs. Foley.

C. E. Lester was in town Monday on business.

GENERAL COUNTY.

Mrs. Robt. Collier, aged 87, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Tippens, in Pittsville Monday morning. For a person of her years Mrs. Collier had enjoyed exceptionally good health. She was taken violently ill Sept. 17th and died the following Monday morning, Sept. 24th, at three o'clock.

Samuel Hiles of Pittsville has picked several squashes from his vines weighing between 75 and 100 pounds each. There is an exhibition in one of the store windows of Pittsville a head of cabbage weighing 32 pounds.

Frank Jadack's farm near Milladore, which is conceded to be of the finest in Wood county, was sold last week for $12,000.

MARSHFIELD ITEMS.

The new armory will be formally opened to the public on Tuesday of next week on which occasion there will be a concert and general jollification, with music by the Second Regiment band. On Thursday evening there will be a grand ball. The boys have made great preparations for a good time and there is no doubt that the celebration will be one of the events to be remembered in the social history of Marshfield.

William Ward died in this city on Wednesday at the age of 67 years. He was a veteran of the war of the rebellion and had lived in this city for the past thirteen years. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from the M. E. church.

The first game of foot ball by the high school team will be played in this city with the Colby team on Saturday. The boys are in pretty good trim and expect to win.

The Second Regiment band has been granted an appropriation of $100 for the ensuing year and as a consequence there will be no new expenses during next summer.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Council Room, Oct. 2, 1900.
Council met in regular session
Mayor Goggins presiding.

Aldermen present Wood, Lutz, Reiland, Runde, Pratt, Kellogg, Antufer, Oberbeck, Schnabel and Boles.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved with the following corrections:

Nick Reiland was appointed an election inspector and James Miller a ballot clerk in Second Ward and Fred Giesler as Inspector in place of E. V.
Baldwin for the Eighth Ward.

The committee appointed to report locations for additional arc lights made following report.

We the committee on street lights would recommend that arc lamps be placed at the following named places:

One at corner of Peach and Milwaukee St.

One at corner of East street and Milwaukee St. S. E corner Fair Grounds.

One at corner of Saratoga and Court House St.

One at corner of Saratoga and Milwaukee St.

One on First Ave. half way between Peach and the cross street leading to High street. (All on East Side.)

One at corner of Nels Johnson's residence.

One between Maple street and St.
Paul depot on Cranberry street. (On West Side.)

Signed M. S. PRATT,
JOHN SCHNABEL,
Com.

On motion one arc lamp on Water street at the corner of McMillan residence was added to the above report.
Report then adopted. On motion the arc lamp at corner of Daly and Fremont street, West Side, was ordered moved one block east to the corner of Factory and Fremont street.

The street committee reported on the petition asking the building of a culvert across French and Fremont street recommending that the prayer of the petition be granted. Report adopted.

The petition of Fred Schuman asking council to allow him some amount for the loss of two fingers while handling curb stone, was presented.
The prayer of above petitioner was denied.

Ben Hansen in behalf of E. N. Cops & Co. presented a petition asking the city to exchange a certain piece of ground with the St. Paul Ry. Co. near West Side market square or in lieu thereof to be given permission to occupy in part a small parcel of land on East Side of switch track as the above Cops & Co. desire to build a potato and ware house near the track and market square.

Moved and carried that mayor appoint a committee of three including city attorney, to look up the above matter and that they have power to make such arrangements in this behalf as will be to the city's best interests.

Alderman Wood and Kellogg were appointed as such committee to act
with city attorney.

The Clerk informed the Council that Hon. John A. Gaynor, county judge of Wood County, has filed with the city clerk on the first day of October
A. D., 1900 all the original papers including verdicts and minutes, with a proper certificate attached thereto in the condemnation proceedings to widen East Street and a further certificate that no appeal had been taken from the verdicts and that more than ten days had elapsed since the rendition of said verdicts.

Whereupon the following ordinance was presented and unanimously adopted.

Ordinance 68.

An ordinance relating to the widening of "E" street a public street in the city of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin:

The common council of the city of Grand Rapids, do ordain as follows:

WHEREAS, upon application to the Hon. John A. Gaynor county judge of Wood County, Wisconsin, due proceedings having been had for that purpose, a jury composed of twelve competent jurors found it necessary to take the lands hereinafter described for the purpose of laying out and widening

"E" street, a public street in the city of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin and assessed the damages of the private owner of said described lands, Wm. Corcoran, of said city of Grand Rapids by reason of such taking by said city of Grand Rapids at the sum of two hundred and fifteen dollars, it is therefore ordained by the common council of the said city of Grand Rapids that the following described lands, to wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of sub-division of the southwest quarter of the south east quarter of section No. seventeen (17), of township No. twenty-two (22) north, of range six (6) east in said city of Grand Rapids, according to Sargent's plat of the city of Grand Rapids, running thence east along the northern boundary line of said subdivision to the eastern boundary line of Milwaukee street for a place of beginning;
running thence east along the northern boundary line of said sub-division about eighty rods to the northeast corner of said sub-division thence south along the eastern boundary line of said sub-division thirty feet thence west on a line parallel with the northern boundary line of said sub-division about eighty rods to the eastern boundary line of said Milwaukee street thence north on the eastern boundary line of said Milwaukee street thirty feet to the starting point or place of beginning; intending hereby to describe a piece of land thirty feet in width on the north side of lot No. four
(4) of said sub-division according to Sargent's plat of said city of Grand Rapids, now the private property of William Corcoran of the said city of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin be taken by the said city of Grand Rapids, in Wood County, Wisconsin for the purpose of laying out and widening "E" street a public street in the said city of Grand Rapids, and that the said city of Grand Rapids ac-tuate such title and interest to said described lands as is provided for by section 925 sub-division 163 of Wisconsin statutes for the year 1898 and acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, to wit: such title and interest as shall be necessary and convenient for the use and purpose for which said land was condemned.

And it is further ordained and the street committee and all other employees, agents and servants of said city of Grand Rapids, are hereby enjoined and directed not to enter upon the above described lands for the purpose of taking the same or laying out or widening "E" street by such taking until the owner, the said William Corcoran, of said city of Grand Rapids, be paid in full the damage awarded him by the verdict and appraisement of the jury as aforesaid, to wit: the sum of two hundred and fifteen dollars or until such damage to wit: the sum of two hundred and fifteen dollars be set apart in the hands of the city treasurer for said city of Grand Rapids in Wood county and an order therefor lawfully executed to said William Corcoran, be deposited with the city clerk of said city of Grand Rapids to permanently remain subject to the order of said Wm. Corcoran.

Approved October 2nd, A. D. 1900.
Attest B. R. GOGGINS,
M. W. MOSHER, Mayor.

Moved and carried that upon the conditions of the above ordinance being performed the street committee open and improve above street to full width.

Under suspension of the rules the following bills were allowed:

Moved and carried that the Mayor appointed a committee of five to investigate the matter of building a water works plant for this city by obtaining estimates from different companies, cost of material, etc., plan of organization and see what amount of stock would probably be subscribed towards a co-operative plant such as the telephone and electric light plants of our city and report same to the council in the near future. Alderman Wood, Pratt, Oberbeck, Schnabel and Kellogg were appointed as such committee.

Resolved by Alderman Wood that the city do all in its power to help obtain a right of way through the city for the Northwestern Ry Co. and by granting proper permits to run along and cross said streets with main and side tracks as may be necessary.

Resolution adopted.

The mayor acting comptroller submitted the following statement of the amounts that should be levied upon the taxable property of the city for the ensuing year.

To the city clerk and common council of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin:

I herewith submit the following which in my judgment will constitute the items of expense of the city for the coming year.

Stone wall bond and interest.....	$ 1325.00
City hall & library bond and interest.....	310.00

Incidentals.....	300.00
Board of review and assessor.....	600.00
Over draft.....	13000.00
State tax.....	2000.00
County tax.....	5800.00
State school loan & interest.....	1000.00
West side " " " " ".....	915.00
Library.....	600.00
Total.....	$ 57,618.00

As an off-set against this the city will receive the following items:

Cranberry street macadam.....	$ 3050.85
Library building " " " " ".....	119.78
Licenses.....	4300.00
Sewers.....	1743.91
Income of Waterworks over expenses except salaries.....	1100.00
Total.....	$ 10,914.00

Leaving a balance of $ 16,704.54

I would recommend therefore that the council levy a tax of $46,800 for all purposes.

The large over-draft is due to extensive street improvements for which no provision had been made and also the large amount of outstanding orders (over $5,000) against the city of Centralia, for the payment of which no provision had been made.

I urge that the council levy sufficient tax to pay all the expenses of the city for another year together with this floating debt upon which the city is paying interest.

Respectfully,
B. R. GOGGINS,

Mayor.

Resolved by alderman Wood, that the statement be adopted and confirmed and that $468.00 be levied as taxes against the taxable property of the city.

On roll call, Resolution unanimously adopted.

Moved and carried that mayor
appoint a committee of three including city attorney, to look up the matter of the building of a side walk along the East Side lot 13 block 31 Neeves addition and of the title of said tax, alderman Reiland and Boles were appointed as such committee to act
with city attorney.

Moved and carried that the mayor and policemen get what evidence they can relative to minors being in saloons and obtaining liquors and gambling therein and report such evidence to the council, to the end that such persons violating the law be deprived of their licenses by the council.

Moved and carried that city attorney notify the M. & S. E. Ry. Co. to put in more culverts. Number and places for same to be designated by the street committee and city engineer for the purpose of drawing the water from this part of the city.

Water works engineer reported expense of pumping station for month of September to be $142.30 water pumping 2,048,639 gallons.

Report accepted.

Treasurers report not in.

There being no further business upon motion council adjourned.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

STEVE KLONOSKY THE VICTIM.
Several Minor Catastrophes from the Same Cause.—J. D. Witter Loses a Horse.

Steve Klonosky, who lived in the town of Sigel about half a mile north of James Granger's place, was killed by lightning on Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock.

He was engaged in making some repairs to his granary at the time of the accident and was just nailing on a board when the electric fluid struck the structure, killing Mr. Klonosky instantly. Although the shock was a very severe one, none of the buildings were set on fire and no other great damage was done.

Mr. Klonosky was about forty years old and leaves a family of seven children, his wife having died some time ago. The oldest son, a boy of seventeen years, was disabled last summer by the loss of a foot in the sawmill at Arpin. The loss of the father will leave the family rather in a handicapped position, the crippled son being unable to do a man's work. The funeral was held yesterday.

Horse Killed by Lightning.
J. D. Witter had a driving horse killed by lightning on Wednesday night. The animal was in the stable at the time and although there was a horse on either side, they were apparently uninjured. The lightning seems to have entered over the electric light wire, as there was hay in the barn at the time and this was not set on fire.

Fred Kruger's House Struck.

The home of Fred Kruger on the west side was struck by lightning at about 1:30 o'clock Thursday morning, damaging the dwelling somewhat, knocking off more or less plaster in different places.

Charley Kruger was sleeping near a partition down which the electricity seemed to run and when he was awakened by the crash his face was covered by the broken plaster and dust from partition. He was not injured by the shock, however, but it was entirely too close for comfort.

Storm a Severe One.

The severity of the storm was felt all about this section of the state. Damage by lightning, wind and excessive rain is reported from many sections outside of this immediate locality. The appearance of the sky on Wednesday afternoon was such as to lead people to fear that there would be a severe windstorm here, but it passed by without any damage from this source. The lightning, however, was the most severe that has been known for some time. The amount of rainfall has been simply phenomenal, and was so incessant as to almost entirely stop all kinds of outdoor work.

This great fall of water has been mostly felt by the farmers, who have been prevented from threshing, while many report that the excess of moisture is rapidly injuring the potato crop and will undoubtedly cause much rot.

Club Year Opens.

The Woman's club opened the new club year with a sumptuous banquet at the residence of Mrs. T. A. Lipke. At seven o'clock the guests sat down to a five course dinner, covers being laid for nineteen. Menu as follows:

Blue Points Turkey Cranberry Sauce
Creamed Potatoes
Stuffed Egg Plant Salted Nuts
Bread Salad Waters
Sherbert Assorted Cake
Coffee

The table was artistically decorated with smilax and pantries, with an elaborate center of American beauty roses. The Mandolin club furnished sweet music throughout the evening.

Those present were Mesdames Daly, Gaynor, Hambrecht, Harmon, Harvie, Lipke, Scott, Thomas, Webb and Witter, and the Misses Parrish, Briere, St. Amour, Nash, Kromer, Emmons, and Whitrock.

Souvenirs for the occasion were furnished in the form of the menu card which was in the shape of a pastry, handpainted and inscribed with violet ink, the club color.

High School Notes.

The musical exercises in the morning have begun to take on the form of systematic work now, and in a short time Mr. Fuller expects to form a glee-club and a chorus.

Next week the pupils will have a chance to show how much they have learned during the past six weeks.

Miss Vinnie White of Vesper and Irving Brazeau of this city visited school during the past week.

This week has been a very poor week for studying on account of the dark days.

Notice.

The barbers of the city of Grand Rapids announce that, on and after October 20th, 25 cents will be charged for cutting children's hair, instead of 15 cents as heretofore.

REPUBLICANS NOMINATED.

The Convention at Marshfield on Tuesday Afternoon.

At the republican county convention which convened at Marshfield on Tuesday afternoon all of the voting precincts of Wood county were represented with a very few exceptions. The convention was a harmonious one throughout and the men named are pretty generally satisfactory to the republicans throughout the county.

The convention was presided over by E. E. Winch of Marshfield with C. S. Vedder of Marshfield as secretary. A committee on resolutions consisting of Wm. Noll, C. E. Anderson and Isaac P. Witter was appointed. The convention then proceeded to the nomination of a set of county officers which resulted as follows:

Member of Assembly—F. A. Cady. County Clerk—E. S. Reene. Treasurer—Jacob Sears. Sheriff—Jas. McLaughlin. Clerk of Court—Chas. Podwitz. District Attorney—Herman Wipperman. Register of Deeds—E. A. Upham. Surveyor—L. W. Pitts. Sept. of Schools—D. C. Gile. Herman Wipperman was appointed chairman of the county committee and T. A. Taylor secretary.

Our Nominations.

That the nominations made by the democratic convention this year are good ones there is no doubt, and nobody, even the most rabid republican, says different. The experience of the past two years has proven them to be men who are not only competent to fill the positions they occupy but also men who are not afraid to perform the work as it comes to them and are able to perform it without asking advice from outside parties.

People who have had business at the courthouse during the past two years have been impressed with the manner in which they have been received and the expeditious and neat way in which their business has been disposed of. This is not political bosh but is admitted and commented on by the most conservative people of our community. A set of conscientious, reliable county officers is a thing that they seem to appreciate and speak of more than one would expect to hear.

Why this is, we cannot say, unless it is because it has not always been so. Our experience in Wood county has not extended over enough time to allow us to say anything about the men who have previously held offices here, but it seems to us that a good, competent man, who has attended strictly to business and made himself a part of the working machinery of an institution of this kind is entitled to some recognition for the work he has done. The least the people could do would be to continue him in the office he has filled so acceptably.

GRAND RAPIDS TRIBUNE.

GRAND RAPIDS, WIS.

STRIKERS STILL OUT.

Mineworkers Suspicious of the Increase Offered by the Coal Companies.

New York, Oct. 2.—At the offices of the various coal-carrying railroads here today it was said that all reports received indicate that the strike situation remains unchanged.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 2.—Reports received here this morning indicate that the 10 per cent. increase in wages offered by some of the coal companies to the mineworkers in this region had no apparent effect in bringing the striking miners back to work. The officials of the Lehigh Valley Coal company, which posted notices last night, report the same number of men at work today as worked yesterday and similar information was received from the various individual collieries where the advance has not yet been offered. The mineworkers as a rule do not appear to grasp the meaning of the notices as posted by the Lehigh Valley Coal company and declare they will not make a move towards resumption of work until ordered to do so by a miners' convention.

Hotels and houses in different parts of the city owned by nonstriking workmen were stoned during the night by unknown persons. All of the attacks occurred near midnight. Nobody was hurt, but several persons had narrow escapes from being hit by flying boulders and glass.

President Mitchell, accompanied by members of national executive board of the United Mineworkers and other officials of the union, left here shortly after 11 o'clock for Wilkesbarre, where a big labor demonstration is to take place this afternoon.

No Settlement in Sight.

Scariton, Pa., Oct. 2.—The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railway company posted notices today that the wages of its employees would be advanced 10 per cent. from October 1, and that the miners would be reduced to $1.50. Similar notices were posted today by the Hillsdale Coal & Iron company and the Tampa Iron & Coal company. Gen. Supt. Rose of the Delaware & Hudson company said his company would undoubtedly issue the same notice. It has not done so yet.

Strike leaders say the proposals do not come up to the demands of the strikers by any means. There is not today any indication that a settlement will be effected on the increase proposed.

The individual operators have sent a committee to New York to seek a reduction in freight charges, as they say that otherwise they cannot meet the wage advance.

Demonstration at Wilkesbarre.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 2.—President Mitchell and other officers of the national executive board of the United Mineworkers arrived in this city shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon. They were welcomed by an enormous crowd at the Lehigh Valley railroad station and there was the greatest enthusiasm. The city was gaily decorated for the parade in which thousands of striking mineworkers marched. Some of the local unions marched many miles to get here.

Many mottoes were carried in the parade, such as: "Give us a fair day's wages for a fair day's work." "Powder must be reduced." "We are loyal to our union."

After the parade a big mass meeting was held at West Side park which was addressed by President Mitchell and others.

SOLD FOR HIGH PRICES.

Ballyhoo with Foal Purchased by William C. Whitney.

New York, Oct. 2.—John E. Madden has made another sensational horse sale. He has sold to William C. Whitney Ballyhoo with a foal at her side by Kingston and with an unbom foal by the same sire. The price of these royalty-bred animals is said to be $50,000.

The foal is a full brother to Ballyhoo. Mr. Whitney's grand 2-year-old, which won the Futurity and Flatbush stakes.

Madden paid J. Will Forsythe $11,000 for the mare and foal the day before the Futurity was run. Thus in one month's time he has made $39,000 on his investment.

If the foals turn out as well as Ballyhoo Mr. Whitney will have secured a bargain even at the big price he pays for the mare. This is the largest price ever paid for a brood mare in this country.

TINPLATE CONFERENCE.

Agreement Between the American Company and Its Employees.

New York, Oct. 2.—The conferences between officers of the American Tinplate company and men representing their employees have resulted in an agreement on the scale of wages, but some minor demands of the men remain to be settled. The consideration of these were deferred, pending the arrival in this city of some of the district managers of the tinplate company. These men are expected today, when the conference will be continued. It is believed a final agreement will be reached.

VERDICT OF SUICIDE.

Helen Sontaghe Not Implicated in Death of H. G. Barbour.

New York, Oct. 2.—Helen Parker Forbes, better known by her adopted name of Helen Sontaghe, appeared at the Borough hall in Brooklyn yesterday to tell Coroner Anthony Burger and a jury how Henry Grosvenor Barbour came to his death in a Brooklyn hotel on the evening of September 12 last.

The jury's deliberations were brief and a verdict of suicide was quickly reached in Barbour's case.

Facts About Ptomaines.

Ptomaines are the poisons of putrefaction. They are alike developed in the prefraction of vegetable and animal matter. All ptomaines are not poisonous, and, indeed, investigation has demonstrated that the greater number are not, but science has not been able to distinguish between the deadly and the harmless until somebody has eaten the wrong kind.

A new range-finder has just been invented which, it is said, is a great improvement on all range-finders now in use. The distance of any object can be ascertained by a mere glance through the instrument, it being shown on a little dial the moment the object is focused.

There are in operation in Mexico thirteen cotton mills.

PROVIDE FOR THE NEEDY.

RELIEF FOR HUNGRY.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 3.—At 3 o'clock this afternoon President Mitchell said to the Associated press: "I have just heard the rumor of a settlement, but you can positively say for me that I am not in negotiations with railroad presidents, nor have I received a communication from any of them."

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 3.—W. B. Fairley of Alisgo Purcell, Ind.; Fred Dilcher, Ohio, and Benjamin James, Pennsylvania, members of the national executive board, held a private conference at noon today. The questions which were under discussion have not been made known, but it is believed they relate to relief measures. Contrary to the general impression, the striking mineworkers will not be given cash in the way of relief, but will be provided by the union with provisions and clothing for every member of each family needing assistance.

It is believed the plan adopted will provide for the establishment of supply depots in each mining town in charge of the local union officials where the needy men can be provided for upon application. The United Mineworkers will pay for the supplies. An official of the union said today that the bituminous miners and other organized labor will send supplies by the carload for the relief of the unorganized miners. The same official said the nomination men on strike will be just as well taken care of as if they belonged to the miners' organization.

New York, Oct. 3.—The coal road presidents continued reclusive today concerning the strike situation. At the office of the Erie and Lehigh Valley roads it was said no news had been received during the morning from the mines and that the conditions were without change there so far as they could tell at this distance. John Markle, managing partner of the Markle mines at Hazleton, Pa., did not leave town last night as was reported. He was at the office of the Lehigh Valley Coal company today, but his visit was made later by Vice-President Sarge of the coal company, had nothing to do with the strike.

At the office of the Pennsylvania Coal company it was said that Vice-President Thorne had no statement to make. There were two informal meetings of the independent operators, but no action bearing upon strike matters was taken.

Standing Together.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 3.—There is no material change in the strike situation throughout the country. The collieries which have been working since the inauguration of the strike are still in operation. The mineworkers have completely ignored the noxious of the Lehigh Valley and the Lehigh & Wilkesbarre Coal companies to the effect that an increase of 10 per cent. has been granted in wages and that the price of powder would be reduced, and so far as can be learned about the same number of men are idle today as yesterday.

An attempt was made at 2 o'clock this morning to blow up with dynamite the house occupied by Michael Zulke, a mineworker, in the eastern part of the city, but no extensive damage was caused. Zulke has been working since the strike went into effect. No other case of violence has been reported.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 3.—Gen. Gobin has been informed that a big meeting of mineworkers is scheduled for tomorrow night at Lansford, Pa., in the Panther creek valley to which locality the strike has not yet penetrated. It is understood that a large number of strikers from the vicinity of Hazleton will attend the meeting. At present there are no indications of trouble, but Gen. Gobin said today that if troops were needed they will be in readiness. Reports from the Panther creek valley today are to the effect that the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company collieries are still working with full forces, despite the great pressure brought to bear on the men there by strikers from other districts. It is said that about fifty striking mineworkers from Hazleton are making quiet but strenuous efforts to close the collieries. Meetings were held last night at Lansford, Coal and Somers Hill, all of which were largely attended but it is impossible to learn how many of the mineworkers joined the union. Similar meetings will be held every night.

Absolute peace reigns in and about Shenandoah. Gen. Gobin said today that he hopes to send the Eighty-third regiment home tomorrow. This will leave the Fourth regiment, Battery C and the governor's troops in the field, about 800 men in all. Maj. Farquhar, provost marshal, states that the foreigners in the vicinity of Indian Ridge colliery and the eastern end of Shenandoah are displaying an ugly disposition. He says he has ordered the provost guard to make frequent trips through that section.

Shainokin, Pa., Oct. 3.—Following the example of the owners of Midvale colliery in shutting down their works until the strike is over, the Shainokin Coal company's Natalie colliery between here and Mount Carmel was closed down this morning. Before the strike 100 men and boys were given employment there, but during the past two weeks the big operation was worked with about 300 men.

Fifty-nine cars were loaded with coal at the North Franklin colliery at Trevorton yesterday, the only Reading company colliery operating in the North Schuylkill region. It was the largest one-day tonnage in the history of the operation.

Strikers on Parade.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 3.—Fifteen thousand strong, the striking mineworkers headed by the leaders of the United Mineworkers of America, marched in parade yesterday. Afterward more than 20,000 of the workmen and their friends gathered in mass meeting at West Side park and listened to a speech by President Mitchell, their leader.

The most significant incident of the day was President Mitchell's reference to a proposed convention of miners to decide upon the course they are to pursue. By some it is taken as a hint that the miners may get together in convention and accept the offers of an increase which have been made by the individual operators. However, Mr. Mitchell, in answer to a direct question, said that not one local union in the entire anthracite field had requested the calling of a convention of the miners.

Encouraged by Mitchell.

In his speech President Mitchell said: "This strike shall not be declared off by me. It shall not be ended until a convention of anthracite miners shall decide. Every union and every colliery will be asked to send one or more delegates to a convention to determine the question for themselves. You must decide the question of your going back to work. I will not pretend to determine your fate or that of the 500,000 who are directly affected by this struggle. I firmly believe that victory will be achieved by the men standing together. Do not let one of you move until all move."

A significant move in the direction of peace developed last night at Shenandoah, where all the local branches of the United Mineworkers held meetings and selected delegates to a convention to be held later. President Mitchell. This is the first announcement of the selection of convention delegates.

A CLEVER SWINDLE.

Farmer Witnesses a Wedding and Unsuccessfully Signs a Note Which is Discounted.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 3.—A Carver county farmer living near Shakopee was recently victimized by a new method. A young couple was married at his house and he signed as a witness to the ceremony. Four days later a note for $450 bearing the farmer's signature was discounted at the Carver County bank. Neither the minister nor the bride and groom have been seen since the wedding.

Most of the newspapers look upon the Chinese Emperor's letter to the Kaiser as a piece of childishness. The Hanover Courier says that such a clumsy attempt to induce Germany to accept a cheap apology is scarcely worthy of serious consideration.

The government evidently takes the same view of the situation as that expressed by the Hanover Courier.

The Kaiser's answer to Kuang Hsu's letter is in order to the Stuttgart officers to hold themselves in readiness to proceed to China.

Approve Kaiser's Words.

The Freisinger Zeitung points out that the Emperor's reply is in harmony with the note of Count von Buckow demanding the punishment of the advisers of Kuang Hsu. The paper doubts whether the Chinese ruler will follow the advice to return to Pekin, "since it would be ruinous in the downfall of the dynasty of the Manchus."

A high official of the foreign office, discussing Kuang Hsu's letter, said:

"We see in this letter fresh proof of the Chinese Emperor's correct sentiments.

Throughout all the trouble,

the Chinese Emperor has been the one who has been most responsible for the atrocities. In the final settlement of accounts with China Germany will not demand harsher treatment for Emperor Kuang Hsu than for any other power, not even the United States."

Gen. Kretsch's Slave Talk.

Official advice from Pekin, dated September 27, ascert that a further examination of the Chinese noncommissioned officer accused of the murder of Baron

Baron Kretsch resulted in this statement:

"On June 21 I and my people received orders from a prince to shoot foreigners

wherever we came across them."

The accused denied that the order was to shoot a minister, or the German minister, and declared himself unable to say which prince gave the order.

The Kaiser's Reply.

Following is the reply of Emperor

William to the Chinese Emperor's message:

To the Emperor of China: I, the German

Emperor, have received the telegram of your majesty, the Emperor of China. I have received with satisfaction that your majesty is anxious to make reparation to

the shameful murder of my minister, which set

at naught all civilization, yet, as the German Emperor and a Christian, I cannot regard that abominable crime as atrocity for the sake of a little gain, and I am not of your majesty's opinion that the murder of my minister was committed by your majesty's subjects for the sake of

the custom and except of your relation to

the shameful murder of my minister, which set at naught all civilization, yet, as

CHAPTER X.—(Continued.)

In order to conceal his astonishment, Griffiths had to bear in mind that this old gentleman and his son were "Germans or something," and that to people of that kind nothing in the way of sentiment is too extravagant.

"You have seen her, I suppose, sir?" he asked.

"Yes. We sat beside her at a theater. I noticed her when we rose to go. She dropped her fan, and my son picked it up. She smiled on him. That is the only time I have seen her."

"What part of the house were you in?"

"The stalls."

"Which row?"

"The third from the front, I think."

"Was she alone?"

"No, she was with a woman; a woman old enough to be her mother. I disliked her, but I did not see anything in the girl that I disliked."

"Were the stalls well filled?"

"Yes; I did not see one empty seat."

"Then they paid for their seats. Orders would have gone to the back row. That shows they must be pretty well off."

"I have no doubt about that. They were dressed magnificently. Besides, they have a carriage and ride fine horses."

"How did you learn that, sir?"

"My son has seen them in the park since that night."

"When?"

"Many times—in the afternoon."

Griffiths started to his feet.

"Come along with me, sir," said he. "We may be there in time to catch sight of 'em to-day. Only just point out the female and I'll undertake to find out her name and address and all the rest before the week's out."

The cab that had brought Mr. Petersen was standing outside the door.

"That cab won't do," said Mr. Griffiths, at a glance. "The horse is no good, and the man's a fool. Pay him, sir."

At the cab stand he found a hansom to his taste—rubber tires, good horse, and a driver as spry as a terrier.

"I may want you to go sharp, and I may want you to go slow," said Griffiths to the driver.

"Yessir," replied the driver attentively, with the perception that he had a good job in hand.

"When I shore the trap up sharp, go like blazes; when I shore it up slow, slacken down till it closes, and keep up that pace. Don't stop till I sing out. Understand?"

"Yessir. Where to?"

"Straight before you. Take your direction from my walking stick, and keep a sharp lookout for it. Understand?"

Following these directions the cabman drove like the wind to the park. There he turned round, and returned the same way as a smart trot, turning at the corner, and pulling up by the sidewalk within a hundred yards of the entrance.

They had passed scores of carriages, but up to this point Mr. Petersen had failed to detect the ladies they sought, though he had followed several with his eye uneasily.

"Are you pretty certain you'll know the parties if you see 'em?" asked Griffiths, observing the painful anxiety in the old gentleman's face with misgivings.

"I have seen three or four women like the elder of the two—but none like—the younger. There is not among them all one beautiful."

He got out and nodded to the driver as a signal to wait; he also cast a glance at the constable on duty in the road, who, recognizing him, acknowledged the glance by raising his hand in salute. In the Row he stationed himself with Mr. Petersen at the railings.

"Who have you got your eye on, sir?" he asked presently.

A tall, well-built young man, with a fair face and a light mustache, was looking eagerly up the Row.

"I should have taken him for an Englishman—a young gent from college," F. Griffiths soliloquized mentally. "He don't look like a fool—anyways not such a fool as to go mad about a female he's never spoke to."

"I do not see them here," said Mr. Petersen, despondingly.

"'P'raps not, sir; but they're here. Don't you see how the young gentleman keeps his eyes turned one way, and takes no notice of anybody passing before him? Keep your eye that way, too, sir—never mind Mr. Eric."

They waited five minutes; then Mr. Petersen, in flushed excitement, murmured: "Those two, I think, I am not sure. Yes, I think the graceful lady on the outer side is the one."

"I am sure of it," said Griffiths, emphatically. "Look at your son."

The young man had drawn back from the rail, and his face, transfigured with an ineffable joy, was gazing on the young girl passing before him.

While the old gentleman turned his eyes with tender anxiety upon his son, Griffiths was taking in the two ladies in a penetrating, comprehensive glance. One was of a type that he recognized in a moment—a shapely woman of the world with a very white nose, dark eyebrows and a knot of loose, soft, golden hair; the other, a young girl, radiant with health and happiness, her white teeth gleaming through her parted lips, her large, dark eyes sparkling with innocent enjoyment, was certainly not of the kind generally seen with such a companion. Griffiths shot a glance at the groom that followed them.

"Come on, sir, I've got 'em!" he said, exultantly.

"Do you know them?" asked Mr. Petersen.

"No, but I know their groom. They're hired horses, and the groom comes from Dyer's livery stables. However, I shall make sure," he added, as he sprang into

Mrs. Redmond's hands when the truth is known."

"That is what I want—the truth. Nothing more."

"Well, I'll have to go at it, sir, and learn all there is to be learned," said Griffiths, with renewed cheerfulness. "In the meantime, don't you say a word about this to your son."

"Heaven forbid that should do that wrong to Miss Grahame," said Mr. Petersen. He left the office, promising to call the next day.

Griffiths sat for some time in consideration; then he put money in his pocket and went out to buy the truth about Miss Grahame.

At the Grosvenor he learned that Mrs. Redmond and Miss Grahame owed nothing for their board. On leaving they had settled their account with a check for one hundred pounds, drawn in favor of Vanessa Grahame by Hyams Nichols.

The name was well known to the private detective: Nichols was a professional money lender. It was dated the same day that they left the Grosvenor. It looked as if they had been staying there only till they got the money to pay their bill. But it puzzled Griffiths to imagine how they had got the money out of Nichols; he was the last man in the world to be taken in by pretenses of any kind. It cost Mr. Griffiths two whole days and the best part of a five-pound note before he got within measurable distance of an explanation. He succeeded at length, however, in getting Mr. Benjamin Levy, a clerk to Mr. Hyams Nichols, into his office, and there he brought him to a communicative spirit.

"Mrs. Redmond came to us the very day she left her husband," Mr. Levy explained. "She brought Miss Grahame with her. The young lady was dressed plainly, and looked particularly pale."

"He reads it—so did I afterward. It was a will, leaving an estate worth forty or fifty thousand pounds to Miss Grahame, to be hers when she's twenty-one, with a codicil placing her under the guardianship of James Redmond until she comes of age, and bequeathing the whole estate to him in the event of her dying a minor. Do you see?"

Griffiths nodded.

"When the governor had read it through, Mrs. Redmond says, 'This is Miss Grahame; I am the wife of her guardian, James Redmond. I have given up my home and all I have in the world to be hers when she's twenty-one, with a codicil placing her under the guardianship of James Redmond until she comes of age, and bequeathing the whole estate to him in the event of her dying a minor. Do you see?'"

"I should think they had. Embarrassment; that's what they'll be up for; and they'll go to prison for it, as sure as my name's Griffiths."

CHAPTER XI.

"Getting goods under false pretenses—that's embezzlement, sir," replied the private inquiry agent.

"And yet they keep horses and carriages and dress like that!"

"Both in it, sir; and, from information received, I should say the young girl was more in it than the other. It's she who's let 'em in and got credit all around."

"What is this? Do you tell me that practiced men of business would give large credit to a young girl like that?"

"I don't think they would if they'd known it; but the parties took precious good care they shouldn't. This is how they did it. The young lady has a lot of cards printed with her name, 'Vanessa Grahame,' under a crest, and 'Grahame Towers' over the London address in a corner. But auntie gives the cards, and orders the things to be sent home, and consequently leads me to believe she's Vanessa Grahame. They worked another dodge of the same kind. 'I told you, I have abandoned everything, I have nothing but the pony carriage in which we made our escape from Grahame Towers and a few personal effects.'

"Your husband has no legal claim upon that property, of course?" says the governor, getting on to business.

"None," says he: "I have nothing that belongs to him—not even a name. That is a stain I will not bear. Henceforth I shall be known only by my maiden name—Merrivale."

"A very proper decision, Mrs. Merrivale," says the governor. "And now, I presume, you want me to give you a temporary pecuniary assistance?"

"Not for myself, but for Miss Grahame," says Mrs. Redmond. "She must live during the next three years in a manner suitable to the position she is to occupy when she comes of age. For that purpose I wish you to advance the sum of five thousand pounds on the security of that will."

"I intend," says Mrs. Redmond, "to live in London and keep Miss Grahame under my protection until she is entitled to her estate and is no longer in danger of falling a victim to my husband's machinations. But I am without means. As I told you, I have abandoned everything, I have nothing but the pony carriage in which we made our escape from Grahame Towers and a few personal effects."

"Your husband has no legal claim upon that property, of course?" says the governor, getting on to business.

"None," says he: "I have nothing that belongs to him—not even a name. That is a stain I will not bear. Henceforth I shall be known only by my maiden name—Merrivale."

How Obadiah Saved the Farm.

The old safe box is empty, ma, my vallet's long been flat.

The farm looks wus and wus each year—no one kin question that:

The crops don't seem to grow no more, the old hoss can't be rid.

And I've been thinkin' late, ma, that something must be did.

At first I thought of sellin' out, and asked Judge Mendl's advice—

He said as how I couldn't sell the place at any price:

"Your land and barn is perfect wreck."

Young land's all swamp," says he. And though it went agin the grain, I had to half agree.

But, there, Amanda, don't take on—for I've thought up a scheme.

That soon'll make you feel as if you're livin' in a dream:

We'll take a dozen city folks to board the summer through.

And there'll be racin' colts for me, and stylish frocks for you!

You think the farm ain't good enough?

My dear, it ain't the way.

Things really is that brings the city folks, it's what the papers say:

I'll advertise this dismal place as "Hillcrest-by-the-Sun."

If that don'take them city folks, then I don't know 'em, none.

I'll say it is a healthy spot—not addin' though, "for frogs."

I'll speak of golf and tennis grounds—not mentionin' the booz,

I'll say the fare is simple, for that alius brings 'em out—

And we'll be awfully careful, ma, none on 'em gits the gout.

So I'll write out the notice, usin' all the brain I've got;

While you fix up the attic with a wash stand and a cot:

And you kin bet them cityites, heawin'

we're more than done,

Will come a-rushin' with their trunks to Hillcrest-by-the-Sun!

PROF. C. K. ADAMS RETIRES

Withdraws Indefinitely from Wisconsin University.

DEAN BIRGE AT HEAD

III—Health Causes Board of Regents to Grant Executive an Indefinite Leave of Absence.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 1.—[Special.]—President Charles Kendall Adams of the University of Wisconsin has been indefinitely retired on half pay by the board of regents.

Dr. Adams will go abroad for his health which has been bad for the last two years, and will travel through the Mediterranean countries. His length of retirement has not been fixed and he does not know when he will return. In his absence Dean E. A. Birge will act as president, as Vice-President Parkinson has declared his desire to assume no additional duties of the administration. Dean Birge will receive $1000 a year additional salary while he is acting president.

The regents assert positively, as the result of close medical examination, that Dr. Adams has no organic and incurable disease. They state that his malady is only functional and curable. It is confidently predicted that with freedom and care and a warm, equable climate, Dr. Adams' recovery will be complete.

President Adams has been in the educational harness for so many years that his friends feel that he has earned a long period of rest. His work in connection with Michigan university gave him prominence in the college world. Then he went to Cornell for seven years.

In 1882 the West bid successfully for Dr. Adams' services and on January 17 he was inaugurated as president of the University of Wisconsin.

There under his direction, the university of the Badger state has experienced just such a growth as has made the universities of Michigan and of Illinois marked by the whole country. The universities of the three states have been in sharp competition and each has made a phenomenal record in point of increased attendance.

Dr. Adams had not confined himself to university work. His name was familiar to readers of scientific and economic periodicals. Two of his recent publications are "A Plea for Scientific Agriculture" and "Higher Education in Germany."

His degree of doctor of laws was conferred by the University of Chicago in 1878 and by Harvard in 1886.

Dr. Adams had served as president of several scientific and literary organizations.

DEMOCRATS MEET.

COUNTY OFFICERS NOMINATED.

X Harmonious Convention.—General Satisfaction Expressed with the Men now in Office.

The democratic convention convened at the city hall in this city at 2:30 o'clock. A good representation was present from all over the county and the convention proceeded with harmony all the way through. Pretty general satisfaction has been felt by the democrats and the people at large for the present incumbents in office and it was the feeling of all that they were entitled to a second term in the offices they have filled so acceptably. It is certain that there has never in the past been so competent a set of county officers in the court house as has existed during the past two years, and the people of Wood county can do no better than to vote for them again in the same capacity.

The nominations were as follows:

Member of Assembly—A. E. Germer, of Dexterville.

County Clerk—W. H. Reeves, of Grand Rapids.

County Treasurer—M. G. Fleckenstein, of Marshfield.

Sheriff—P. Ward, of Grand Rapids.

Clerk of Court—Wm. White, of Pitts-ville.

District Attorney—D. D. Conway, of Grand Rapids.

Register of Deeds—James Vaughn, of Marshfield.

Surveyor—Donald McKercher.

Coroner—W. H. Geits.

Superintendent of Schools—Otto J. Len.

L. M. Nash was re-elected chairman of the county committee and Adam Paulus, secretary.

The Cucumber Industry.

Now that the experiment of raising cucumbers in this section has been tried and found to be a success it would be well for our citizens to make some move toward the establishment of a salting station at this point. Alart & McGuire, the people who have engineered the matter in this section during the past season, think that this is as good a place for an establishment of this kind as can be found and they stand ready to co-operate with our people in the enterprise.

During the past summer there has been a small acreage of cucumbers planted in this section and from a financial standpoint the experiment has been a success. The figures show that the returns have been from $50 to $75 per acre, and that in a season that was an unusual one from the fact that there was a long drought just after the seed was planted, stunting the vines to a great extent and in fact preventing the seed from sprouting at all in some instances. The company's books show that in many instances the income per acre averages over $100, which shows a profit greater than most of the crops raised by farmers about this section.

The soil in the immediate vicinity of Grand Rapids is peculiarly adapted to the establishment of small gardens and patches where cucumbers could be successfully raised, but is not such that would invite cultivation on a large scale, so that an annual revenue amounting to thousands of dollars might be realized from sections which are at the present time producing very little.

A Card.

We, the undersigned, do hereby agree to refund the money on a 50 cent bottle of Greene's Warranted Syrup of Tar if it fails to cure your cough or cold. We also guarantee a 25 cent bottle to prove satisfactory or money refunded.

Auction!

Andrew Bissig will hold an auction sale at the farm of Bert Farmer on Tuesday, Oct. 9, of farm implements, stock, horses, wagons, etc. In case the weather is bad the auction will be held next day.

To the Deaf.

A rich lady cured of her deafness and noises in the head by Dr. Nicholson's artificial ear drums, gave $16,000 to his institute, so that deaf people unable to procure the ear drums may have them free. Address No. 13,881, The Nicholson Institute, 780, Eighth Avenue, New York.

EARL RIDGMAN WRITES.

In Encountering Varied Experiences In The U. S. Navy.
Earl Ridgman, son of Dr. Ridgman of this city, who has been second engineer on the cruiser Buffalo, writes his father from Cape Town, Africa, as follows:

CAPE TOWN, S. AFRICA, Aug. 21, 1900.
DEAR FATHER: Well, here I am, down here in an entirely different part of the world from which I expected to be at this time when I wrote you last from Gibraltar, and I must tell you the reason.

After I wrote you we got orders to wait until a German ship came with provisions and ammunition for us. The following Sunday we were granted leave and, as there was not much happening on the rock, several of us decided to make a visit to Malaca, a Spanish town, where there was a bull fight billed. We saw the bull fight all right but after it was all over about a hundred Spaniards closed in on us and for a few minutes there was a hot time in the old town. We were taken to jail where we were kept ten days until our ship left and we had been marked as deserters. Then the Spaniards took us to the American consul to get the reward money offered for deserters, but they failed to get the hoodie they had figured on. In fact they did not get a cent. We reported on the U. S. S. Porter and she was ordered here. From here we go to China via Manila.

This place is very pretty, being situated at the foot of the noted Table mountain on Table Bay. There are many parks and gardens about the city, but at present there isn't much business here, but after the war is over no doubt the place will take a boom. Last Sunday I took a walk up the mountain and picked some silver leafes which grow on the side of the mountain.

I should like very much to see all the folks at home once more, but expect it will be some time yet before I do, probably not before next June. They say we will not stay long in China, but will go around the "Horn" for home, and I hope so, as that will more than put me around the world. The British brought about 700 Boers down on flat cars this morning. They were placed on board ship and are now on their way to the Isle of Ceylon off the coast of India. I think they will ring of fighting for a time. I will close now, with love to all.

E. P. RIDGMAN.

The doctor received another letter from his son on Tuesday under date of Sept. 20 from London saying that their boat had been ordered to London instead of China. On their way from Cape Town they touched at St. Helena Island where they saw the tomb of Napoleon. Here were confined 4,000 Boer prisoners also 1,000 Americans who had been captured while fighting with the Boers. They also touched at Cape Verde. Earl also stated that he expected to be transferred to the torpedo boat Porter, and that they would visit Galveston, Texas, for a few days after which they would go to China.

—On the 10th of December, 1897, Rev. S. A. Donahoe, pastor M. E. church, South Pt. Pleasant, W. Va., contracted a severe cold which was attended from the beginning by violent coughing. He says: "After resorting to a number of so-called 'specifics,' usually kept in the house, to no purpose, I purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's cough remedy, which acted like a charm. I most cheerfully recommend it to the public." For sale by Johnson & Hill Co.

Wm. Annas was released from the county jail on Friday, having served his term out. Mr. Annas states that while he was confined in jail several people who had professed to be his friends tried to induce his wife and family to leave him and go to the poor farm and become a charge on the county. Also that they approached him and wanted him to sell his farm and horse for a very low figure in order to get hold of the property. This, Mr. Annas thinks, is rather a low piece of business.

—During the winter of 1897 Mr. James Reed, one of the leading citizens and merchants of Clay, Clay Co., W. Va., struck his leg against a cake of ice in such a manner as to bruise it severely. It became very much swollen and pained him so badly that he could not walk without the aid of crutches. He was treated by physicians, also used several kinds of liniment and two and a half gallons of whisky in bathing it, but nothing gave any relief until he began using Chamberlain's Pain Balm. This brought almost a complete cure in a week's time and he believes that had he not used this remedy his leg would have had to be amputated. Pain Balm is unequalled for sprains, bruises and rheumatism. For sale by Johnson & Hill Co.

—In every community there are many sufferers from chronic diseases who have to an extent become resigned to their afflictions. We seem to get used to our conditions however painful they may be. No doubt there are persons in and around Grand Rapids who have really forgotten what it is to be well, to be the happy possessors of health. In many instances they have perhaps tried to be cured but found no help, and have finally resigned themselves to their fate. It is to this unfortunate class that the visits of Dr. McElwee, the eminent specialist will have particular interest. The stories of the wonderful cures he has performed at Tomah and other near-by cities, would be dismissed as unworthy of consideration were they not substantiated by the most prominent citizens. In Tomah, it is said, there is difficulty in seeing the doctor, so great is the number of invalids that monthly throng his office for two days to secure health at his hands. The doctor himself claims that not a little of his success is due to his using a line of rare imported remedies from Europe's most skillful chemists. In cases of rheumatism, painful stomach troubles, asthma, nervous and skin diseases, these fine drugs get cures promptly when ordinary shop-worn medicines are worse than useless.

SET FIRE TO A HOTEL.

Thieves Break in and Get What They Can.

Incendiaries Piled Rubbish Against Side of Building at Waucephad, Mich., and Ignite It.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] The Waucephad hotel at Waucephad, Mich., was totally destroyed by fire last night, and another building near it was partially destroyed. The total loss is $3,000, with no insurance. The fire was set by thieves who stole $120 from the saloon and attempted to burglarize the store. The incendiaries piled rubbish against the side of the hotel, saturated it with kerosene and set fire to it. It was with great difficulty that the firemen prevented the flames spreading over the entire village. The hotel destroyed was one of the old landmarks of the Menominee range, having been built in 1870.

MRS. PENNOYER DEAD.

The Widow of Dr. Edgar Pennoyer of Kenosha Passes Away.

Kenosha, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] Mrs. Hulda Wey Pennoyer, widow of Dr. Edgar Pennoyer and one of the best-known women in southern Wisconsin, died at her home at the Pennoyer sanitarium, north of this city, this morning. The deceased was nearly 80 years of age and had been a resident of Kenosha for half a century. With her husband she assisted in the founding of the old Kenosha water cure, which later became the Pennoyer sanitarium. She was a woman of great culture and her home has always been one of the main meeting places of the cultured people of Kenosha. She was well known in many other cities in the state. Three children survive: Dr. Nelson Pennoyer and Miss Alice Pennoyer of this city and Milton Pennoyer of the J. V. Farwell company, Chicago.

SHEEP STOCK FARM.

T. W. Laughlin Buys Large Tract of Property in Taycheedah, Fond du Lac County.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] T. W. Laughlin, formerly manager of the Grand Central dry goods house in this city, who has made a special study of the sheep industry the past few years, has just purchased 1,250 acres in the town of Taycheedah and makes the announcement that in the event of McKinley's election he will use the farm exclusively for sheep-raising. He takes possession of the property at once. The money consideration in the deal was $7,000.

Mr. Laughlin now resides in the village of Taycheedah, where he has a large tract of lake-shore property. The farm he has purchased is of Anthony Welsh lies on the east side of the Winnebago, just two miles from the village and a mile north of Peebles Corner. A brook fed by springs runs diagonally through the property, all of which is hilly and backed by the ledge. There are twenty acres of woods on the farm, which is peculiarly suited for sheep-raising.

MILLS MAY SHUT DOWN.

Menominee River So High it is Impossible to Sort Logs.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] A heavy rain and wind storm passed over Marinette early this morning. The wind did some damage, and the fall of rain was the heaviest in years. The Menominee river is higher than it has been at any time this year, and loss is feared from high water. The boom company will probably have to suspend the sorting of logs on account of the high water, and this will shut down most every sawmill in Marinette and Menominee. For several days past it has been almost impossible to sort logs.

MOTHER'S AWFUL DEED.

Two Rivers Woman Claps Daughter in Her Arms and Jumps Into Water.

Two Rivers, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] Mrs. Valentine Rouiller committed suicide by drowning last night, taking with her her 2-year-old daughter. The bodies of both, clasped in a fatal embrace, were recovered at 3 o'clock this morning by the lifersavers in the Mishicot river, in about three feet of water.

The cause of the terrible deed is attributed to constant worrying because her husband intended to take up farming to which she had a decided aversion. Her husband recently acquired a farm near Merrill and is there at present.

She was 23 years of age and is survived by a son 4 years of age, besides her husband and parents.

WOMAN BADLY BURNED.

Tries to Save Property from Destruction—She will Not Recover.

Oconto, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] The town of Antico, Lacour, of this city was destroyed by fire last evening, the work of an incendiary. Mrs. Lacour, who is an elderly woman, attempted to recover some articles from the burning building and was badly burned. The physician entertain no hopes of her recovery.

BADGER PRIZES OFFERED.

University of Wisconsin Students Publication is After Contributions.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] Thirty prizes have been offered to students for the best production for the 1902 Badger. The competition work on literary matter, comic features, and art work, and the prizes are cash and merchandise. The Badger, which is purely student publication, has a widespread reputation in the West, similar to the Yale and Harvard publications in the East, and the interest in that work is by no means confined to the student body. Old copies of the Badger have sometimes brought hand-on prices.

Large Contracts Closed.

Tomahawk, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] The regular annual meeting of the board of directors of the Bradley-Watkins company had in this city and directors and officials elected for the ensuing year. Several large cedar contracts have already been taken and others are being considered.

SOON BE IN OPERATION.

Work on Prairie River Extension of Marinette, Tomahawk & Western Road.

Tomahawk, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] The work on the Prairie river extension of the Marinette, Tomahawk & Western railway is progressing favorably and it is expected that the company will begin operating fifteen miles of the road by December 1, and the extension of the Spirit river division will be brought into use about the same time. Thus far about $6,000 in tie have been purchased for the new extension. The 45-pound rails on the "Soo" division of the Marinette, Tomahawk & Western railway are being replaced by new 50-pound steel rails, owing to increased traffic. The division is 80 miles in length and extends from the city to Tomahawk Junction.

Tomahawk will be illuminated by electricity within fifteen days. Wires and lamps are up and machinery is being placed. The city has an excellent system of sewers, the city building is progressing finely and will be under roof by October 15. It is of solid brick, two stories. Excavation is completed for the big brick block, corner of Wisconsin and Tomahawk avenues. The Maccaes are erecting a large block on the corner of Fourth street and Wisconsin avenue. The new brick plant inside the city limits is producing 20,000 bricks daily. Post offices have been established at Bay Mills, Spirit Falls and Gurnetts on the Marinette, Tomahawk & Western railway. A farmers' fair day will be held once a month at Spirit Falls.

The mills are all running and will continue until the river freezes up. The last drive of the season on the Wisconsin river, between Tomahawk and Rhinelander, has reached this city. It contained 1,000,000 feet belonging principally to the United States Lumber company or Tomahawk. Other owners are the Merrill Lumber company, Alex. Stewart Lumber company, Gilkey & Anson and others.

The Mitchell hotel has closed a successful season's business. The house has been filled with tourists from Tennessee, Illinois, Minnesota, southern Wisconsin and other states.

PROTEST BY BISHOP.

Dowie, the Zionite, Wants to Import Lacemakers into This Country.

Fond du Lac, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] It having been stated that Dowie, of Zion notoriety, was about to import a colony of lacemakers from Nottingham, England, for his new "heaven" near Chicago, hoping to escape the application of the alien contract-labor law on the plea that lacemaking is a new industry in this country, Bishop Grafton of Fond du Lac diocese recently wrote letters of protest to the secretary of state and the commissioner of Indian affairs at Washington. The protest was made on the grounds that the industry of lacemaking was introduced several years ago among the Indians of the mission schools at Oneida, Keshena and other points, and now, as it has been for some years, in successful operation. It is announced in the last number of the American Churchman, the official publication of the Fond du Lac diocese, that the bishop has received satisfactory replies on the subject from the department.

AGAINST SYRIAN PRIEST.

Appleton, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] Clerical circles in Outagamie county and various points along the Fox River valley are somewhat exercised over the action of Marcus C. Daniel, claiming to be an ordained minister of the Kurdish-Syria, who has recently solicited funds for a church in Syria in various points in the state. Charges of unorthodox conduct have been made against him by Lutheran ministers at Ripon and Appleton, and Bishop Grafton of Fond du Lac has now published in the American Churchman a notice of withdrawal of a letter of commendation given recently to Daniel, his reason for the withdrawal being given as "in consequence of information received since date of letter."

GRIEF CAUSES SUICIDE.

Mary Strandburg of West Superior Driven Insane by Loss of Husband and Child.

West Superior, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] Crazed by grief for her late husband and child, Mary Strandburg drowned herself in Newton creek in this city.

NEARLY A MURDER.

Lively Saloon Row at Ashland Causes Many Arrests.

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 3.—A row occurred in a Finnlander saloon here in which about fifteen Finns participated. When the fracas was along, it is alleged, J. K. Keeler, the proprietor of the saloon, shot twice at one Rillond. The chief of police and two men of the police force, who were arming themselves, ran against the right side of his head and fired. The ball entered near the right ear and came out at the left temple. He left a note asking that his wife, who lives at Oxford, be informed of his death. The note stated that he had left him on account of family trouble. He was a traveling salesman for the Humanized Dehorner company of Darien, Wis. He was about 45 years old.

INVASION OF HORNETS.

Many La Crosse People Frightfully Stung Have Started Crusade Against Pest.

La Crosse, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] La Crosse is having a hornet invasion and the offices downtown literally swarm with them. A regular crusade has been begun against the troublesome visitors and it is not at all uncommon to see a man going downtown with a bottle of benzine in one hand and a sputum in the other, with which to get after the hornets. Several people have been frightened and a man presiding at a political meeting the other night was bitten on the leg and it threatened to break up the house for a few minutes.

SEARCHING FOR RELATIVES.

Former Resident of Marinette Dies in Alaska Leaving Estate.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 3.—The chief of police received word from Juneau, Alaska, that Orrin Cole, a former resident of this city, died there, leaving an estate valued at $300,000. He has relatives in this state, and an effort is being made to locate them. He was in the lumber business.

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING.

House at Marinette Set on Fire and Girl Shocked.

Marinette, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] The home of John Leonardsen was struck by lightning early this morning. The entire house was shattered and seriously damaged. There were twelve people in it at the time and all escaped injury except a daughter, who was rendered unconscious. The house was set on fire, but the flames were extinguished before much damage was done.

Plymouth, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] The barn belonging to John Zett, living three miles southwest of here, was struck by lightning and totally destroyed, including grain and one horse. It was partly covered by insurance.

Lightning has killed so many cattle that it is proposed to diminish the danger by means of ground wires, which will conduct the electricity into the earth.

WOMAN KILLED BY HORSE.

THE HORSE RAN AWAY.

Chippewa Falls, Wis., Oct. 3.—[Special.] The facts in the death of Mrs. Frederick Grover, a resident of Ausburg, a small town north of here, brought out by the inquest show that on Sunday afternoon she went into the pasture to get a horse with which to drive to where her husband conducts a cheese factory, a mile distant. She carelessly tied one end of the rope halter around her neck and the other around the horse's neck. The animal became frightened and for fully an hour ran around the pasture with the human body attached to the rope. Finally the animal tired and stopped. A man passing on the road saw the body of a woman lying on the ground and he attempted to release it, when the animal again started on its mad race. It was some time before it was captured. The body was frightfully mutilated. Not a stitch of clothes was left on it, the head was battered into pulp and was unrecognizable and nearly every bone in the body was broken. The rope was just the length to allow the body to come in contact with every fatal blow of the horse.

SUICIDE ON DAY OF THE WEDDING.

Frank Whitehead of Whitewater Shoots Himself on His Nuptial Morn.

Whitewater, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.] Frank Whitehead, a farmer 25 years of age, living near this city, committed suicide this morning, shooting himself with a shotgun. He was to have been married at 2 o'clock this afternoon to Miss Lillie Taylor of this city. The families of both are highly respected and in good circumstances. Miss Taylor is prostrated with grief.

Everything was in readiness for the wedding. Whitehead had ordered a complete outfit of furniture for his house and the dealer, who is also the undertaker, was on his way to the house with the furniture when the word was brought to him to get a coffin and care for the body of the prospective groom.

Groom was Frightened.

The only cause for the rash deed of Whitehead is that he was frightened. He had been engaged for about a year, but it was known that he felt shy and disliked the idea of the wedding ceremony.

Yesterday he told one of his farmhands that he did not feel that he could stand up and get married before all of the people who would be present and that he would give anything if he could get out of going through the ceremony. He was nervous all day yesterday and walked about his room all last night. This morning after breakfast he took his shotgun and went to his room. Shortly afterwards a report was heard.

No letter or note was left by the dead man. Word was hurriedly carried to Mr. Taylor, the father of the bride-to-be. He was terribly shocked. When Miss Taylor was told of the awful affair she fainted away and has been prostrated since.

The young farmer was very popular and both his family and that of Miss Taylor were wealthy. The parents of both had each drawn $1000 from the bank to be presented to the couple after the wedding today. To all appearances the match was a happy one.

The dead man was the son of David Whitehead, a prominent farmer, and Miss Taylor is the daughter of Henry Taylor, a business man of this city.

SHOOTS HIMSELF IN STORE.

J. S. Bundy of Durkee Commits Suicide at Portage.

Portage, Wis., Oct. 2.—[Special.] J. S. Bundy of Durkee, Wis., committed suicide here this morning by shooting himself through the head. He entered the gun shop of T. F. Camp and purchased a 22-caliber revolver, which he had loaded with cartridges. The gun was no sooner loaded than he placed it against the right side of his head and fired. The ball entered near the right ear and came out at the left temple. He left a note asking that his wife, who lives at Oxford, be informed of his death. The note stated that he had left him on account of family trouble. He was a traveling salesman for the Humanized Dehorner company of Darien, Wis. He was about 45 years old.

Elephant Becoming Scarce.

It is no secret to those concerned in Oriental trade that elephants are becoming scarce; but not many people in England know what has been the increase in price. According to our consul in Chiemgau, the price in northern Spain has gone up threefold. In that country the elephant is essential to drag timber from the forests, and while the cost of animal power has increased to such an extent, manual labor has also become more expensive, and like elephantine labor, is becoming exceedingly difficult to obtain.—London Globe.

What Do the Children Drink?

Don't give them tea or coffee. Have you tried the new food drink called GRAIN-O? It is delicious and nourishing, and takes the place of coffee. The more GRAIN-O you give the children the more health you distribute through their systems. GRAIN-O is made of pure grains, and when properly prepared tastes like the choice grades of coffee, but costs only  $\frac{1}{2}$  as much. All grocers sell it. 15c and 25c.

Hard Lines of London Ballet Girls.

Reports from various sources tend to show that the theatrical market is getting overstocked with ballet girls, and that consequently during the forthcoming pantomime season their salaries are likely to be lower than they hitherto were. This is to be deplored, for the life of the genuine ballerina is by no means a rosy one. Here is an arduous apprenticeship and undertaken at a cost which frequently entails sacrifices on the part of her parents. Advancing spinnerhood often brings want, unless the ballerina manages to attract the notice and gain the friendship of one their chums who gets out of the ruck, and employers take as a factotum and dresser.—London Telegraph.

NEKOOSA.

Chris. P. Thompson and Miss Laura Wakely were married last Wednesday at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wakely. The wedding was a very pretty one the bride being attended by her sister, Miss Wakely and the two Misses Thompson, sisters of the groom, Miss Ethel Scott was ring bearer. A large number of guests were present and merry making was kept up till a late hour. The newly wedded couple have gone to housekeeping in a home already furnished by the groom. They both have hosts of friends who wish them good luck and prosperity.

Word was received here last Monday by Mr. and Mrs. J. Kuter of the death of their grandson, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Chamberlain of Necedah, by cholera infantum. The little boy was brought here Monday evening, interment taking place the next day.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church resumed their meetings again last Wednesday, after a three months' vacation. They meet next week with Mrs. Marvin.

Mrs. A. E. Gurdy and Mrs. J. E. Thomas drove to Grand Rapids last Thursday and were guests of Mrs. J. Cameron at the "thimble bee" given by her for Miss Ward.

W. E. Ulc returned to his home at Stevens Point last Tuesday, having completed his large contract with the Nekoosa Paper Co.

Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Ray departed for Rockford, Ill., last Wednesday for a couple of weeks' visit with Mrs. Ray's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Netherwood of Oregon, Wis., arrived last Thursday night and are guests of their daughter, Mrs. A. Marvin.

Miss Sue Beeston visited at the home of her brother, Martin Beeston, in Grand Rapids last Sunday.

CRANMOOR.

On some of the marshes the gathering of the cranberries is finished while on many others the picking is still in progress. Scarcity of pickers and very unfavorable weather the last two weeks has made the picking later than usual. Berries are picked on the Gaynor, Bennett, Whittlesey and Carew marshes, this week will probably complete the work on the Skel. Kruger, Fitch and Foley marshes. The Rezin Bros. have a good many berries yet to get in and it will take some time to get all from the Arpin marsh. Mr. Arpin had abundance of water to save fruit from the frost without the aid of recent rains, everyone now must be well supplied for perhaps the heaviest rainfall of the season came to us this week and water is evident everywhere.

Cranmoor did not appear in the last issue of the Tribune because of the many other things that engrossed the attention of your correspondent. We do not like to miss a number, for aside from the home people to whom these items are of interest, we know of some "down east" "out west" and scattered along the line who look for our corner with a peculiar eagerness. To these friends we want to say that old time conditions do not yet exist with cranberry growers but we are all making some headway in that direction.

Richard Rezin and S. N. Whittlesey, who were drawn to serve as jurors this term of court, went to the county seat Monday morning to respond to roll call.

A. E. Bennett went to Marshfield Tuesday as a delegate to the republican convention.

Edward Kruger and guest from Minnesota were up town visitors Thursday.

Mr. Dodge and a trio of friends drove down Sunday from Port Edwards.

Dr. Boorman was down again Tuesday looking after his patient, Mrs. Foley.

C. E. Lester was in town Monday on business.

GENERAL COUNTY.

Mrs. Robt. Collier, aged 57, died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Tippins, in Pittsville Monday morning. For a person of her years Mrs. Collier had enjoyed exceptionally good health. She was taken violently ill Sept. 17th and died the following Monday morning, Sept. 22nd, at three o'clock.

Samuel Hiles of Pittsville has picked several squashes from his vines weighing between 75 and 100 pounds each. There is an exhibition in one of the store windows of Pittsville a head of cabbage weighing 32 pounds.

Frank Jadack's farm near Milladore, which is conceded to be of the finest in Wood county, was sold last week for $2,000.

MARSHFIELD ITEMS.

The new armory will be formally opened to the public on Tuesday of next week on which occasion there will be a concert and general jollification, with music by the Second Regiment band. On Thursday evening there will be a grand ball. The boys have made great preparations for a good time and there is no doubt that the celebration will be one of the events to be remembered in the social history of Marshfield.

William Ward died in this city on Wednesday at the age of 65 years. He was a veteran of the war of the rebellion and had lived in this city for the past thirteen years. The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from the M. E. church.

The first game of football by the high school team will be played in this city with the Colby team on Saturday. The boys are in pretty good trim and expect to win.

The Second Regiment band has been granted an appropriation of $500 for the ensuing year and as a consequence there will be open air concerts during next summer.

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Council Room, Oct. 2, 1900.

Council met in regular session

Mayor Goggins presiding.

Aldermen present Wood, Lutz, Reiland, Bunde, Pratt, Kellogg, Anthofer, Oberbeck, Schnabel and Boles.

Minutes of previous meeting read and approved with the following corrections:

Nick Reiland was appointed an election inspector and James Miller a ballot clerk in Second Ward and Fred Giesler as inspector in place of E. V. Baldwin for the Eighth Ward.

The committee appointed to report locations for additional arc lights made following report.

We the committee on street lights would recommend that arc lamps be placed at the following named places:

One at corner of Peach and Milwaukee St.

One at corner of East street and Milwaukee St. S. E corner Fair Grounds.

One at corner of Saratoga and Court House St.

One at corner of Saratoga and Milwaukee St.

One on First Ave. half way between Peach and the cross street leading to High street. (All on East Side.)

One at corner of Nels Johnson's residence.

One between Maple street and St. Paul depot on Cranberry street. (On West Side.)

Signed M. S. PRATT,
JOHN SCHNABEL,
Com.

On motion one arc lamp on Water street at the corner of McCallum residence was added to the above report. Report then adopted. On motion the arc lamp at corner of Daily and Fremont street, West Side, was ordered moved one block east to the corner of Factory and Fremont street.

The street committee reported on the petition asking the building of a culvert across French and Fremont street recommending that the prayer of the petition be granted. Report adopted.

The petition of Fred Schuman asking council to allow him some amount for the loss of two fingers while handling curb stone, was presented. The prayer of above petitioner was denied.

Ben Hansen in behalf of E. N. Cops & Co. presented a petition asking the city to exchange a certain piece of ground with the St. Paul Ry. Co. near West Side market square or in lieu thereof to be given permission to occupy in part a small parcel of land on East Side of switch track as the above Cops & Co. desire to build a potato and ware house near the track and market square.

Moved and carried that mayor appoint a committee of three including city attorney, to look up the above matter and that they have power to make such arrangements in this behalf as will be to the city's best interests.

Alderman Wood and Kellogg were appointed as such committee to act with city attorney.

The Clerk informed the Council that Hon. John A. Gaynor, county judge of Wood County, has filed with city clerk on the first day of October A. D. 1900 all the original papers including verdicts and minutes, with a proper certificate attached thereto in the Condemnation proceedings to widen East Street and a further certificate that no appeal had been taken from the verdicts and that more than ten days had elapsed since the rendition of said verdicts.

Ordinance 68.

An ordinance relating to the widening of "E" street a public street in the city of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin:

The common council of the city of Grand Rapids, do ordain as follows:

WHEREAS, upon application to the Hon. John A. Gaynor county judge of Wood County, Wisconsin, due proceedings having been had for that purpose, a jury composed of twelve competent jurors found it necessary to take the lands hereinafter described for the purpose of laying out and widening "E" street, a public street in the city of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin and assessed the damages of the private owner of said described lands. Wm. Corcoran, of said city of Grand Rapids by reason of such taking by said city of Grand Rapids at the sum of two hundred and fifteen dollars, it is therefore ordained by the common council of the said city of Grand Rapids that the following described lands, to wit: Commencing at the northwest corner of sub-division of the southwest quarter of the south east quarter of section No. seventeen (17) of township No. twenty-two (22) north, of range six (6) east in said city of Grand Rapids, according to Sargent's plat of the city of Grand Rapids, running thence east along the northern boundary line of said subdivision to the eastern boundary line of Milwaukee street for a place of beginning; running thence east along the northern boundary line of said sub-division about eighty rods to the northeast corner of said sub-division thence south along the eastern boundary line of said sub-division thirty feet thence west on a line parallel with the northern boundary line of said sub-division about eighty rods to the eastern boundary line of said Milwaukee street thence north on the eastern boundary line of said Milwaukee street thirty feet to the starting point or place of beginning; intending hereby to describe a piece of land thirty feet in width on the north side of lot No. four (4) of said sub-division according to Sargent's plat of said city of Grand Rapids, now the private property of William Corcoran of the said city of Grand Rapids, Wood County, Wisconsin be taken by the said city of Grand Rapids, in Wood County, Wisconsin for the purpose of laying out and widening "E" street a public street in the said city of Grand Rapids, and that the said city of Grand Rapids acquire such title and interest to said described lands as is provided for by section 925 sub-division 163 of Wisconsin statutes for the year 1898 and acts amendatory thereof and supplementary thereto, to wit: such title and interest as shall be necessary and convenient for the use and purpose for which said land was condemned.

And it is further ordained and the street committee and all other employees, agents and servants of said city of Grand Rapids, are hereby enjoined and directed not to enter upon the above described lands for the purpose of taking the same or laying out or widening "E" street by such taking until the owner, the said William Corcoran, of said city of Grand Rapids, be paid in full the damage awarded him by the verdict and appraisement of the jury as aforesaid, to wit: the sum of two hundred and fifteen dollars or until such damage to wit: the sum of two hundred and fifteen dollars be set apart in the hands of the city treasurer for said city of Grand Rapids in Wood county and an order therefor lawfully executed to said William Corcoran, be deposited with the city clerk of said city of Grand Rapids to permanently remain subject to the order of said Wm. Corcoran.

Approved October 2nd, A. D. 1900.

Attest B. R. GOGGINS,

M. W. MOSHER, Mayor.

Clerk.

Moved and carried that upon the conditions of the above ordinance being performed the street committee open and improve above street to full width.

Under suspension of the rules the following bills were allowed:

Moved and carried that the Mayor appointed a committee of five to investigate the matter of building a water works plant for this city by obtaining estimates from different companies, cost of material, etc., plan of organization and see what amount of stock would probably be subscribed towards a co-operative plant such as the telephone and electric light plants of our city and report same to the council in the near future. Alderman Wood, Pratt, Oberbeck, Schnabel and Kellogg were appointed as such committee.

Resolved by Alderman Wood that the city do all in its power to help obtain a right of way through the city for the Northwestern Ry Co. and by granting proper permits to run along and cross said streets with main and side tracks as may be necessary.

Resolution adopted.

The mayor acting comptroller submitted the following statement of the amounts that should be levied upon the taxable property of the city for the ensuing year.

To the city clerk and common council of Grand Rapids, Wisconsin:

I herewith submit the following which in my judgment will constitute the items of expense of the city for the coming year.

stone wall bond and interest	$ 1325.00
City hall & library bond and interest	30.00
Water works interest	1060.00
Fire department	500.00
Schools	16500.00
Salaries	5000.00
Streets	250.00
Printing	350.00
Elections	2500.00
Light	150.00
Insurance	300.00
Incidentals	600.00
Board of review and assessor	13300.00
Over draft	2000.00
State tax	5500.00
County tax	1008.00
state school loan & interest	945.00
West side	500.00
Library
Total	$57,618.00

As an off-set against this the city will receive the following items:

Cranberry street macadam	$3650.85
Library building	119.70
Licenses	4300.00
Sewers	1743.91
Income of Waterworks over expenses except salaries	1100.00
Total	$10,914.46

Leaving a balance of $46,703.54

I would recommend therefore that the council levy a tax of $46,800 for all purposes.

The large over-draft is due to extensive street improvements for which no provision had been made and also the large amount of outstanding orders (over $5,000.) against the city of Centralia, for the payment of which no provision had been made.

I urge that the council levy sufficient tax to pay all the expenses of the city for another year together with this floating debt upon which the city is paying interest.

Respectfully,
B. R. GOGGINS,
Mayor.

Resolved by alderman Wood, that the statement be adopted and confirmed and that $468.00 be levied as taxes against the taxable property of the city.

On roll call, Resolution unanimously adopted.

Moved and carried that mayor appoint a committee of three including city attorney, to look up the matter of the building of a side walk along the East Side lot 13 block 31 Neeves addition and of the title of said tax, alderman Reiland and Boles were appointed as such committee to act with city attorney.

Moved and carried that the mayor and policemen get whatever evidence they can relative to minors being in saloons and obtaining liquors and gambling therein and report such evidence to the council, to the end that such persons violating the law be deprived of their licenses by the council.

Moved and carried that city attorney notify the M. & S. E. Ry. Co. to put in more culverts. Number and places for same to be designated by the street committee and city engineer for the purpose of drawing the water from this part of the city.

Water works engineer reported expense of pumping station for month of September to be $142.30 water pumping 2,048,639 gallons.

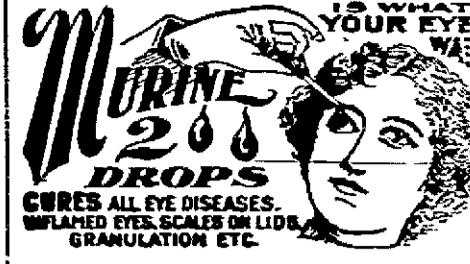

Report accepted.

Treasurers report not in.

There being no further business upon motion council adjourned.
